4 Good Men All Dry
Helping the Farmer
Just a Little Usury
Lord Terrington's Error

— By Arthur Brisbane —

Copyright, 1928, Star Co.

HOOVER AND SMITH, both on a dry platform. Wet Democrats will be told: "Don't worry, we don't really mean that dry stuff."

Wet Republicans will be asked: "Have we Republicans ever acted dry? Have you had any trouble getting what you wanted?"

Two dry platforms with a wet understanding in the program.

Democrats want to help farmers and expect farmers to help them. They promise that what the farmers cannot sell in the United States shall be sold abroad. But "the cost of surplus marketing will be put on the commodity."

This means that what it costs to sell surplus products in Europe will be charged to the farmer.

After he has paid his Government's charges for foreign marketing, he will agree with the Power Trust that our Government isn't capable or honest enough to engage in business successfully.

The Bible warns us against usury.

See Deuteronomy xxiii, 19: "Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of anything that is lent upon usury."

That did not keep big money gentlemen from raising the price of "call money" in Wall Street to 8 per cent yesterday. They may have a private understanding with Providence.

Strangely, 8 per cent money did not keep prices from going up. Our laws against usury remind you of Prohibition Laws. What doesn't suit the big fellows doesn't "go."

Lord Terrington, British peer, stole $300,000, admits it and goes to jail for four years. That happens in Britain.

Had the gentleman come to this country and made it $30,000,000 instead of $300,000, he would be on his private car or yacht now, and able lawyers would be denouncing anybody trying to interfere with him.

Or, as Senator Nye puts it, "you can't convict $100,000,000."

The platform promises to give the Philippine Islands back to the Filipinos, of whom the platform says: "They have succeeded in maintaining a stable government."

The Democrats, might give the Philippines to the Japanese. They won't give them to the Filipinos, because the Filipinos couldn't take them.

Those admirable little gentlemen have not, "succeeded in maintaining a stable government."

The United States has maintained it for them, which is different.

However, platforms must not be taken too literally.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, who forced Congress to admit that the people of the United States might own their own Muscle Shoals plant, is out against the Democratic platform. He doesn't see how any third party could be organized. Which means that he and millions of others that think the farmer has been badly treated, intend to remain Republican none the less

---

The Democratic platform promises to "outlaw war." Women are delighted with that. They hope it will work better than the law to outlaw whiskey. That didn't work well, and unfortunately whiskey and war are brothers.

To get rid of either you must do more than write words in a platform or law books. YOU MUST CHANGE MEN.

The Democratic nomination is a step in the right direction to ward tolerance in religious matters. Thomas Jefferson was determined that this Government should not support, recognize or discriminate against any religion

The nomination of Governor Smith is a step toward realization of plans made by those that established this Government.

4 THUGS THREATEN 9 WITH DEATH IN $5800 SHOE PLANT ROBBERY

In a daring, well planned holdup in Chelsea today, four armed robbers stole the $5800 payroll of the Meadow Shoe Company, Vale st., and escaped after threatening death to four men and five young women.

The robbery was said by police to have borne all the manifestations of an "inside job" and though the authorities of all surrounding cities and towns set an armed motorcycle patrol to apprehend them, no trace was found of the bandits who escaped in a big blue sedan.

The robbers timed their arrival at the factory office just as the weekly payroll was being counted. There is usually $7,000 or $8,000 on hand at about 11 o'clock every Saturday.

Shortly before that hour, the auto containing four men drove into Vale st. and came to a stop before the four-story brick factory building.

FIND 2 COUNTING CASH

All four stepped out of the car, leaving the doors open and the motor running. Two remained beside the car, the other pair passing through the doorway and mounting the stairs to the second floor where the two officers, separated by a door and partition, are located.

In the inner office, behind closed doors, Abraham Madow, president of the company, and Miss Ruth Helman of Dorchester, cashier, were counting the $5300 payroll, stacking the money between them on a table.

In the outer office were Isadore Police Chief Daniel McLeod had refused the would-be paraders a permit and their appeal to Mayor Ashley had been unsuccessful.

ARREST 40 AS POLICE STOP STRIKE PARADE

New Bedford, June 30—Forty men and girls, including Elizabeth Donnelly of Boston, were arrested today when police reserves broke up a parade which radical strikers tried to stage in violation of a police order.

More than 200 police were on special duty in the north and south ends, where parades were scheduled to start simultaneously. The arrests were in the south end at County and Delano sts.

Police wheeled two trucks into place to block the start of the march and then herded all they could round up into the vehicles which speeded to headquarters and returned to the scene for more.

The Boston girl was described by authorities as a radical leader. Police

"Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestler and former Dartmouth College football star who was injured last night in his match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis, collapsed at the Ritz Carlton hotel today after quitting the Trumbull hospital, Brookline, against the advice of doctors.

Sonnenberg was placed in a Costa Ambulance Service car and returned to the hospital.

He was far from well when he quit the hospital and it is not yet known what the result of his injuries may be, as X-rays taken will not be ready until tomorrow.

The Dartmouth wrestler's collapse followed on the heels of a widely circulated rumor that he had died of a fractured skull.

Factory workers were crowding the streets when the dog appeared. An attempt was made by Patrolman Tobey Lyons to lasso it.

'IRRECONCILABLE DRYS' CALL FOR OPEN WAR ON 'TICKET OF TAMMANY'

Houston, Tex., June 30—Determined upon the defeat of Governor Alfred E. Smith in the presidential election, the "irreconcilable drys" of the party today called a conference to consider the situation arising from his nomination and declaration of a personal platform on prohibition.

The call was issued for a conference of drys and all others of the Democratic party opposed to Smith's election to be held at Asheville, N. C., July 11 to 14.

It was signed by Arthur J. Barton of Atlanta and Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Richmond, Va.

In their statement calling the conference, they said:

"We deeply regret that the pro-liquor wing of the party led by Tammany Hall disregarded all warnings and has challenged—indeed defied—the dry democracy of the South by the nomination of Smith, the only declared foe of existing prohibition laws."

Smith's message to the convention, in which he unequivocally reaffirmed his belief that the prohibition law should be modified, struck like a thunderbolt upon the delegates preparing to depart for their homes.

Despite the assurance of the governor of strict law enforcement, his outspoken declaration in favor of modification, leaders

G.O.P. LEADERS ABANDON SENATOR BALLOT PLAN

Doing an "about face" at the last possible moment, 1400 Republican state leaders, in unofficial convention at Symphony Hall, today suddenly decided not to ballot on their preference for a candidate to oppose U. S. Senator David I. Walsh in the fall election.

They were on the verge of voting when they executed this reverse, four candidates Pavin green placed in nomination—Benjamin Loring Young of Weston, ostensibly the favorite; Col. Eben S. Draper off Hopedale, Mayor Leon M. Conwell of Somerville, and Gen. Butler Ames of Lowell.

'AL' SMITH'S OWN PLATFORM STARTS NEW 'DRY' DRIVE

believe, will make that the most talked of issue in the coming campaign.

Indications are that regardless of how they feel about the governor's statement, leading Democrats plan to present the best possible face on the matter. This was gathered from the initial reaction to Smith's message.

Many of those who obviously didn't like his statement declined to comment on it. Others endeavored to explain that it was thoroughly consistent with the dry plank in the platform. And still others, thoroughly in sympathy with a change in the dry law, hailed it as a courageous and acceptable utterance.

One feature does stand forth, leaders point out. For the first time since prohibition went into effect the nation, as a whole, has an opportunity to express at the polls its unbiased opinion of the dry law.

The result is likely to be impressive, one way or the other. While it is not anticipated that Smith could effect an early change in the law, he has defined the issue in such a way that his party cannot escape it.

It is believed here that his stand may have a startling effect on party lines. Traditional lines may go by the boards when Southern Democrats, women, dry Democrats and wet Republicans go to the polls.

It is apparent today that many Democratic leaders already are planning determined efforts to reconcile Smith's statement with the party plank. Senator Key Pittman, Nevada, chairman of the committee which drafted the platform, explained the Smith statement interpreted the attitude of the platform committee.

From the political standpoint, leaders admit the situation is fraught with many possibilities. It is conceivable that in dry areas the Republicans will challenge the statement and Democratic candidates probably will be asked to come out in the open and say whether they stand with their standard bearer in his views.

Democrats read and reread that part of Smith's message to Joseph L. Robinson, convention chairman, in which the New York Governor, after pledging the "equal and even enforcement of the law," hurled into the convention the phraseology which everyone had hoped for or feared, depending on the point of view.

DANIELS DISTURBED

Ex-Secretary of the Navy Daniels, a dry, who as he puts it "sweat blood" over the prohibition row in the platform committee, was manifestly disturbed by the governor's statement.

"I feel the governor's statement is unfortunate," he said. "It comes as an embarrassment to many and makes a hard task more difficult for many who are leaving the convention home in an earnest effort to secure unity. The governor has a perfect right to make a statement, but nobody asked him to state his views at this time and I can only feel that this was gratuitous, only serving to complicate the situation for many."

Senator Glass of Virginia said:

"Undoubtedly the resolution offered by me does not bind anybody to anything except enforcement—obedience to the constitution and enforcement of the law."

And in that dialogue is the more or less official Democratic symposium view. The outcome of the campaign may depend upon whether that also becomes the popular view.

Comments of delegates on the Smith statements were varied. Here are some:

SENATOR ROBINSON, Vice-Presidential nominee.—The governor's telegram reveals his sincere and comprehensive grasp of public questions. His statement touching on prohibition is a repetition of views expressed heretofore. I am very happy over the fact that the convention agreed on a plank for the platform on this subject on which all Democrats may stand.

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH of Massachusetts.—Governor Smith's statement is both frank and courageous. He has set an example of political integrity in letting the country know his views on all important issues, including prohibition.

MRS. EMILY NEWELL BLAIR, retiring Missouri national committeewoman.—I prefer to withhold comment until I have completely retired from the committee, when I can speak freely in my own right.

MRS. FLORENCE FARLEY, Kansas national committeewoman.—Kansas is behind Smith strong and to the end. We expect to elect him in November.

Governor Moody of Texas, who led the fight in the platform committee for a "bone dry plank," declined comment, but he is reported as feeling that the Smith statement does not change the situation, since Smith had made his position clear prior to the convention when the question was raised by Norman Mack, New York national committeeman.

COOLIDGES TO RETURN EAST

At least partial corroboration of the report that President and Mrs. Coolidge would desert the summer White House at Brule, Wis., and spend the rest of their vacation in Massachusetts, was received from Superior, Wis., today.

White House officials there were reluctant to discuss the story printed exclusively in last night's Boston Evening American. "Lay off that story for the present at least" was the gist of their replies to questions on the matter.

They refused to deny that the President would abandon Brule and seek his rest in New England.

There are three reasons which may cause President Coolidge to come on here for at least a part of the summer. First is the failing health of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue Mrs. Coolidge's mother, who is in a Northampton hospital. Second is presidential dissatisfaction with the lodge and environment at Brule. Third, there is the probability the President wishes to visit his boyhood home in Vermont.

Miss Morgan and Miss Guinan pleaded not guilty

Washington, June 30 (AP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition cases, denied today the raids resulting in the closing of nearly a score of New York night clubs, was caused by a specific order from her, though since early winter her office has been co-operating with the prohibition unit in preparing evidence.

She termed coincidental the fact that Governor Smith had been nominated just before the raids and said she was unable to see how they could have any political significance.

STRAW BALLOT ON NEXT WEEK

standard bearer, a majority of the voters throughout the land, undoubtedly, have made up their minds with regard to the man they prefer.

But who will be elected—Herbert Hoover or Alfred E. Smith?

WHERE TO LAST VOTE

Straws show which way the wind blows—and that is the purpose of the Boston Evening American's straw ballot.

This ballot will be conducted by use of ballot boxes attended by girls and placed at various points in Boston and Greater Boston where people pass or congregate.

When you go for your train at the South or North station, or your trolley at Park st., when you are going into the ball park or coming out, when you are downtown shopping, when you happen to be in Central or Harvard sq., Cambridge; at Uphams Corner, Dorchester; in Davis sq., Somerville; at Newton Corner or at one of many other points—you probably will have opportunity to cast a vote in the straw ballot.

The indicating of your choice will take but a minute, and it will be secret.

WATCH FOR BALLOT BOX

On the straw ballot blank presented to you when you express a desire to indicate your preference will be two statements to check.

One will be, "I expect to vote for (either Hoover or Smith)" and the other will be, "Four years ago I voted for (either Coolidge or Davis)."

You simply mark the ballot and drop it in the ballot box.

Watch for the pretty girl with the ballot box. Before the straw ballot is ended, you will have had opportunity to vote somewhere in Greater Boston.

Further details will be published Monday in the Boston Evening American. Watch for them.

UNITED FRUIT OUTING TODAY

Cloudy skies failed to dampen the enthusiasm of nearly 500 men and girls who left Long wharf shortly before noon today for the annual outing of the United Fruit Company employes at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

In busses and private cars the merrymakers reached their destination in time for lunch.

During the afternoon a lengthy program of games and sports was enjoyed. The principal feature was a baseball game between teams representing the Boston and New York offices of the company. A tea dance was another feature of the afternoon.

The affair will close with a dinner, followed by dancing and a vaudeville show staged by professional entertainers.

There's Joy in Erin Over Big Victory for Smith

Cork, June 30 (AP)—The Cork Examiner today said:

"Irish folk in whatever corner of the globe they are located will be stirred by the news that Governor Smith has been nominated by the Democratic party as candidate for the White House.

"The American Declaration of Independence began by declaring all men free and equal and entitled to equal rights before the law without record to race or creed, yet for a century and a half Americans have upheld an unwritten law in regard to the President's faith.

"Every Irishman, no matter what his faith is, will wish him success."

LINE SAVES LIFE IN LONG FALL

Falling four stories from a window of her apartment in Middlesex st., South End, Mrs. Margaret Shea, 42, escaped death today when a clothes line broke her fall, but she has a fractured skull, lacerated scalp and other injuries, and, according to City Hospital doctors, may die.

She landed across two strands of clothes line in the rear of the house. One broke but the other held. A fence to which the line was attached was pulled partly down. Neighbors, hearing her screams, ran to her aid.

Berlin, June 30 (AP)—Announcement was made today of the engagement of Benvenute Hauptmann, son of the famous German poet and dramatist, Gerhart Hauptmann, to Elizabeth Hermione, princess of Schaumberg-Lippe, niece of the former Kaiser's sister, Princess Victoria, now the wife of young Alexander Subkoff.

30 PLANES JOIN HUNT FOR LOST MAIL FLIER

St. Louis, June 30 (INS)—The Robertson Aircraft Corporation here instituted one of the greatest searches in local aviation history today in a desperate attempt to locate Leslie H. Smith, 22-year-old air mail pilot missing since he left Little Rock, Ark., at 7:10 Thursday night.

Every available pilot was gathered at the airport here this morning and each was assigned a definite territory to cover in the intensive search for the airman. At least 30 airplanes are expected to participate in the quest.

Maj. Frank Robertson, president of the aircraft corporation, announced a $500 reward to the one locating the missing flier. Robertson also announced that Col. John A. Pagelow of Scott field, Belleville, Ill., would send a dirigible with five observers into the territory to aid in the search.

ROB N. Y. WOMAN OF $25,000

London, June 30 (AP)—Mrs. Joseph B. Dickson of Park ave., New York, reported to police today that she had been robbed of jewelry valued at $25,000 in a fashionable hotel in the west end of London.

Mrs. Dickson said she went to the Stoke Poges golf course and returning in the evening found she could not open the door to her apartment. She called for assistance and the door was unlocked. She went immediately to a suitcase in which she kept her jewel case. The jewel case was open and the jewelry gone.

ROMANCE BUDS FOR JOHN AND GIRL

New York, June 30 (INS)—Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor and Mrs. Trumbull of Connecticut, today admitted for the first time that her romance with John Coolidge, the President's son, is "budding."

This admission was made rather shyly, in sharp contrast to the alert and positive manner in which she had denied being engaged to young Coolidge just before sailing on the S. S. Arabic with her cousin, Esther Trumbull.

The Governor's daughter was prettily attired in a cool print dress over which she wore a light black cloth coat. On the left shoulder of the wrap blossomed a corsage of roses sent her by the President's son.

"Are you and John Coolidge engaged to be married?" she was asked.

"No, we're not," she replied.

"But the romance, shall we say it is budding?"

"Hm—yes," Miss Trumbull answered with a blush.

Just before the ship sailed Miss Trumbull penned a two-page note to John Coolidge and gave it to her sister, Jean, with instructions to mail it without delay. The President's son is on a train speeding toward his father's Wisconsin summer White House.

John Coolidge Is Not "Choosing" Just Yet

New York, June 30 (AP)—John Coolidge does not choose to become an advertising man—at least for the present. He made this clear in a letter today to J. H. Newmark, an advertising man who offered him a job.

In his letter to the President's son Newmark pointed out that "if you are anything like your distinguished father you know the value of the economy of words and that is a trait which is desirable in advertising work."

John's reply was:

"I thank you very much for your kind offer, but as yet I am unable to accept any such position."

ROBBED OF $25 IN HUB, HE SAYS

Harry G. Raback, of 18 Sylvia st., Lexington, reported to the police that he was held up at noon today, in the midst of the Saturday traffic at Milk and Arch sts., and robbed of $25 by two men.

Asked why he did not shout for help, Raback said the robbery occurred so quickly he did not have time to.

He described one of the holdup men as being 25 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, 150 pounds in weight, dark complexion with a dark soft hat. The other, Raback said, was the same age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, 155 pounds, dark complexion, light suit and leghorn straw hat. Special Officers Robert Lynch and Herbert Dwyer of Station 2 are investigating.

MEARS TELLS OF THE HOPOFF IN WORLD RACE

John Henry Mears, famous globe trotter, and Capt. C. B. Collyer, literally made a flying start on their attempt to lower the world's record for the fastest time in circling the globe. They expect to make it in 23 days.

In a big seaplane they roared down New York harbor, overtaking the Olympic and boarding her beyond Sandy Hook, thereby saving four hours at the start. They are now speeding across the Atlantic.

The story of their epic race against time will appear exclusively in the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers. Here is a message from Mears:

By JOHN HENRY MEARS.
By Radio to the Boston Evening American from the White Star Liner Olympic.

Hoorah! Caught Olympic in a pretty rough sea, gaining four hours in race with moon around world.

That man Harry Rogers is some flying genius. The way he landed his flying boat at sea was real art.

Now for six days of rest to prepare for the hop from Cherbourg to Tokio.

Collyer and I received two shiny dimes just before taking off from the Battery with the compliments of John D. Rockefeller to take as souvenirs. Tail Wind is rarin' to go and show his class as mascot. Now for some sleep.

CHICAGO'S "BEER RUNNER" DEAN FOILS SLAYERS

Chicago, June 30 (AP)—An unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, who the police characterize as the dean of Chicago beer runners, was made here, the attackers following closely the methods employed in slaying "Big Tim" Murphy Tuesday night.

O'Donnell was fired on from a curtained automobile as he stood in front of his home. He saved himself by dropping to the ground behind a motor car parked at the curb.

It was the fourth attempt in the past few years to assassinate O'Donnell, police records show.

A huge parade took place this afternoon and the dedication proper comes tonight. Waldo S. Ford, grand master of this state, will have charge.

Albert Felix Schmitt to Exhibit Paintings in Paris; Portugal's Former Queen Pays Visit to Studio of Cambridge Artist at Pau

THE ARTISTIC PATH TAKEN BY ALBERT FELIX SCHMITT through Europe is one on which the high favor of Royalty gleams and is made smooth by patronage of the noblesse. Word comes over the ocean of interesting personalities he has transferred to oils, during sittings in his beautifully appointed atelier recently established in the Hotel Gassion at Pau in France. One day recently all was excitement within the studio when the former Queen of Portugal, wife of the late King Carlos, descended upon the place in semi-royal state.

A LOVELY SUBJECT FOR THE ARTIST'S BRUSH HAS BEEN the beautiful young Portuguese noblewoman, Marianna San Lorenzo, daughter of the Count of San Lorenzo, with a palace in Lisbon and a villa in Pau. The Queen is guest of the Lorenzos at Pau. "By special appointment" she visited the studio, and royal delight at the marvelous likeness of the beautiful young woman found expression in three languages, English, French and Portuguese. Royal delight extended also to other portraits by Mr. Schmitt, that of Mrs. Schmitt particularly catching the Queen's fancy.

ROYAL FAVOR IS ALSO TO BE EXTENDED WHEN MR. SCHMITT holds his Paris exhibition. And the Queen urges that Mr. Schmitt bring his exhibition to Lisbon, where a gallery in the Museum will be at his disposal and all Lisbon society will be brought to see the paintings. Her patronage will give the thing great eclat, and Lisbon society without doubt will enthuse over "The Amber Necklace," "The Lady of the Leopard," "Sir Charles Peers Davidson," and the other Schmitt works.

THAT THE PORTRAIT OF MARIANNA SAN LORENSO MAY BECOME a part of the permanent collection in the Lisbon museum is the royal wish. And royal wishes have a way of being acceded to. The Queen is the daughter of the Comte de Paris, and, so, granddaughter of the last King who reigned in France, Louis Phillipe. And so it is very likely that after Paris the Schmitt paintings will be carefully crated for a shipment to Lisbon, and a Paris exhibition is forerunner to a Lisbon one.

AN ORANGE BLOSSOM-SCENTED TRAIL LEADS DIRECTLY across the ocean as a liner sails, from Boston's Back Bay to London's Mayfair. A youthful scion of an ancient and superlatively placed Boston family weds with an attractive Anglo-American girl. The wedding takes place in England so parents, brothers, doting aunts, cousins and close friends of the bridegroom are making the transocean passage to help him celebrate the occasion and to support him in the happy ordeal.

THEY ALL GO VIA THE ILE DE FRANCE, THIS FRIENDLY company. They have already gone, really. The past tense is imperative, since the magnificently appointed liner drew out from her pier last night at midnight. And were she not so enormous a ship, and did she not have so large a sailing list, it might be said that a "whole boatload" of Lees, Hammonds, Fessendens, Bigelows, Grays and allied kin were going. As it is, they make a very sizable and very important group in the company sailing.

GEORGE CABOT LEE, JR., IS THE BRIDEGROOM-ELECT. AND Mr. George Cabot Lee, pater, goes to see his namesake son become a benedict. Also go Mrs. Lee, who was formerly Mrs. Bartlett, and her daughter, the Miss Betty Bartlett, bright particular star of the very smart Younger Set. Miss Louise Fessenden, and her mother, Mrs. Sewall H. Fessenden (Mrs. Fessenden was a Lee), and her aunt, Mrs. Charles Mifflin Hammond, are in the family group.

REGINALD GRAY IS ABOARD THE LINER BOUND FOR THE wedding in England. So is Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis. So are Chandler Bigelow and William S. Patten, both these young men to be included in the corps that decoratively enhance a wedding scene with spats and boutonnieres. Next week another batch of ushers departs—young men all born to the purple socially hereabouts and on a parity with the bridegroom-elect, whose club memberships open to him a most inaccessible door, that of the Somerset Club at 42 Beacon st.

LIKE SO MANY BORN AND BRED BOSTONIANS, MR. LEE TOOK his college degree from Harvard. That was in 1921. The study of law claimed him for a while, and then he moved into the banking fold, as was natural, since Lee pater is one of the town's financial giants and the Lee, Higginson firm known almost as widely and favorably as the Bank of England. Mr. Lee has been for some time connected with the firm at their London branch, and his betrothal to Miss Kathleen Stoddart was announced from there.

ALSO OF THE GOLD-SPOON CIRCLE IS THE BRIDE-ELECT. Schooldays were spent at Miss Capen's and Miss Ethel Walker's, these two establishments considered creme de la creme for the polishing off of future debutantes. A year in Paris added further glitter to the polish. Miss Stoddart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Stoddart, formerly of New York, now of Ewell Court, Surrey, England.

OTHER IMPORTANT PEOPLE BY THE SCORE ARE ABOARD the Ile de France. Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of General Grant of Civil War and Presidential fame, is a passenger. The Leonard D. Ahle are aboard. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Spalding and Mrs. Lovell Hodge, Mrs. R. G. Potter, Miss Elizabeth Burrage and Miss Mercy Boyd also have their names on the list that fairly sparkles from the presence of stage lights, famous beauties, celebrities, the one and only Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Irene Castle.

ENGRAVED CARDS IMPLORING THE PRESENCE OF THIS AND that Bostonian at the nuptials of Miss Betty Taller and Mr. Dyer have recently come up from Newport. Boston, of course, as well as many another social center, is ardently interested in the celebrations that will go on at Honeysuckle Lodge in Newport as the adored daughter of the T. Suffern Tallers celebrates her eighteenth birthday and her marriage day at one and the same time.

ANOTHER ADORABLE BRIDE-ELECT AND HER NUPTIALS IN Newport will interest certain Bostonians of the super-elect. Miss Pyrma Tilton, pretty as a picture and the betrothed of Philip Kindersley of London, is to walk the orange-bordered path in August. Miss Tilton is the daughter of Mrs. Herbert Claiborne Pell, Jr., and wedding bells will resound from the Bellevue ave. villa of Mr. and Mrs. Pell on the 25th day of next month.

MISS TILTON HAS BEEN IN BOSTON AS THE GUEST OF Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forbes. With that aristocratic matron she was seen both at the Country Club races, airy in chiffons and shady hat, and at Raceland, in smart, becoming, rain-defying coat and the proper hat for a downpour. At Newport she shines, because she is a vivacious young thing, and boasts the brand of good looks that never fails to match and hold both eye and admiration.

MRS. J. STEWART BARNEY

THE wedding of the former Miss Curgie Winchester, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Bache Pratt, to J. Stewart Barney took place in Gotham, to be sure, but Boston's younger set was keenly interested as well as represented in its celebration. Now Mrs. Barney is a handsome young matron at Newport, where yachts and a summer home and a place in the smartest society the country boasts all are hers.

Riding interests certain youthful Newporters of the millionaire colony. Little Miss Rose Winslow and Miss Virginia French look trim in their smart riding togs. The former is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Winslow, of Cliff Terrace, and Miss French is a future debutante for whom the various French families will be giving parties a few years hence.

BIG QUATZ ART BALL IS 'AWFUL SUCCESS'

Paris, June 30 (INS)—Despite the efforts of a little group of reformers to have the police forbid it, the annual Quatz art ball was given at the Salle Wagram and, judging from the appearance of the revelers as they straggled homeward at dawn today, it was a complete success.

A wave of Puritanism had swept over the Latin quarter before the ball and many students refused to attend it. They claimed some of the girl models were even less clothing than the average flapper and that there were "orgies."

But the protest was drowned as a joyous whoop proclaimed the arrival of the police to act. The protests also advertised the ball among Americans and other foreign tourists, and there never was such a demand for tickets.

The ball committee decreed that the costumes should be modelled after those of Attila and his Huns. Sunrise revealed a number of Hunlike figures slowly returning to their quarters through side streets to avoid the curious gaze of Parisian workers. Most of them looked as though they had followed Attila through a hard campaign.

Although the ball is supposed to be reserved strictly for art students, their models and their friends, several hundred strangers in the disguise of partial nudity gained admittance. Other hundreds were refused admittance or ejected because they could not answer the chief item on the questionnaire:

"What are the dimensions of Aphrodite's third left toe?"

It was generally admitted that one had to be a bit whole-hearted boy in the professor's atelier to get by that shibboleth.

When strangers appeared with girls the girls were generally admitted, for it is one of the chief tenets of art that a girl may be a model if she is pretty even if she does not assay a minimum grade in chiropody.

Outside the dance hall crowds strained at the police lines, but obtained an eyeful of the revelry only at dawn, when "Attila and the Huns" danced down the Champs Elysees for the traditional dip in the fountain basins of the Place de la Concorde. The party always ends up in a bath—external as well as internal.

2 Air Heroes in Hunt For Mobile's Men Win Promotion

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 30 (INS)—Two daring airmen, who risked their lives to search for Gen. Nobile and the crew of the Italia, have been advanced in rank by their respective governments for their daring, but it may be some time before either learns of his promotion.

Lieut. Lief Dietrichsen, who is missing with Capt. Roald Amundsen, has been made a captain by the Norwegian government. Lieut. Lundberg, who rescued Nobile and is now marooned on an ice blue with the survivors of the Italia's crew, has been made a captain by the Swedish government.

MABEL BOLL TO FLY ATLANTIC FROM EUROPE

New York, June 30 (AP)—One disappointed woman flier today had temporarily abandoned plans for a transatlantic flight while another was sailing for Europe to prepare for a westward hop across the ocean.

Miss Tiess Rasche, German stunt flier, whose projected flight to Berlin has been hampered by legal difficulties with her former backers, announced she had abandoned all plans for a transatlantic flight this year and would shortly return to Germany.

Meanwhile, Miss Mabe, Boll, who was at Harbor Grace, N. F., preparing for a transatlantic flight in the monoplane Columbia when Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions made their successful flight in the Friendship, sailed at midnight on the Ile de France to prepare for a flight to the United States, probably within three weeks.

Charles A. Levine, owner of the Columbia, which he had loaned to Miss Boll for her projected flight, said she would use a tri-motored plane of foreign make accompanied by an American and a foreign pilot.

"Big Leviathan Mail Theft" Is All Bunk, Says Skipper

New York, June 30 (AP)—Commodore Harold A. Cunningham, commander of the United States liner Leviathan, on the arrival of his vessel from Southampton today reiterated his denial that looting of mail carried by the ship had occurred aboard the liner.

Commodore Cunningham said the mail was checked as it was loaded at the time of departure here under the supervision of postal representatives and checked again at Southampton.

UNVEIL LONDON TABLET TO U. S.

London, June 30 (AP)—The birth of the American nation was commemorated here today at Brunswick Docks, Blackwall, with an Anglo-American gathering present. A bronze tablet was unveiled to mark the spot from which Capt. John Smith and 105 cavaliers set sail 322 years ago, to found the first permanent English colony in America.

This settlement, at Jamestown, Va., was made 13 years before the Mayflower left Plymouth, and the first representative assembly in America, a forerunner of the Congress of Independence over a century and a half later, was there convened a year before the Mayflower arrived.

The three "cockleshells" in which these colonists fared forth are pictured in relief at the head of the tablet.

Miss Alethea Serpell of Norfolk, Va., vice-president of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiques, who originated and carried out the idea, presided.

Miss Serpell said: "Every member of the committee responsible for the erection of this tablet is descended from members of the London company which originally financed and organized the expedition which laid the cornerstone for the future United States of America."

CURTIS FINDS IT HARD TO GET REST

Providence, June 30 (INS)—Vacationing in "Little Rhody" today was proving almost as strenuous work as campaigning for United States Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas.

At Greyholme Farm, the Narragansett Bay shore estate of his daughter, Mrs. Webster Knight, 2d, the Republican vice-presidential nominee received no less than 600 "hot" and other letters in the morning mail.

Then came the newspaper cameramen and the newspaper interviewers. They had all sorts of "stunts" planned for the candidate.

NO HOKUM FOR HIM

One ambitious photographer wanted a close up of the senator working as a "dirt farmer." Sen. Curtis balked. "You've got to take me as I am," he said. "I'm not farming." The Senator plainly indicated he would not stand for any political hokum, that his way to be a "be yourself" campaign. He told interviewers that he was a "good soldier" and would go campaigning wherever the party sends him.

In order to escape from public affairs, Senator Curtis plans to spend much of his time during his vacation here aboard his son-in-law's yacht. He admitted he was much of a sailor, but declared the sea furnished him his only opportunity to rest.

PLAYING WITH CHILDREN.

Senator Curtis is having a glorious time with his little grandchildren, Constance and Curtis. The kiddies never tired of hiking with grandpa swing them under the big apple tree, or have him visit their playhouse in a tent on the verandah or tell him of the wonderful doings of the cats, dogs, rabbits and bugs on the big farm.

The Senator and his daughter have been encouraged to remain in the great garden that they said they were almost getting tired of it.

TAKES TO YEOMAN.

Last evening Senator Curtis motored from River Point, where stands the Greyholme, to Pawtuxet to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The nominee lauded the legislation passed for veterans by the Republican administration. It was his first public appearance since his nomination.

A "chosen few" of Rhode Island Republicans will meet Senator Curtis at a luncheon at the Squantum Club Thursday afternoon. National Committeeman Frederick H. Peck and Republican State Chairman William C. Pelkey were arranging the affair today. Governor and Mrs. Norman S. Case called at Greyholme and extended an official welcome to the Senator.

Albany, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Governor Smith received the following telegram today from Senator Robinson, replying to the congratulations the Governor sent when the senator was nominated for the vice-presidency:

"Your telegram happily recalls our intimate association in previous campaigns. This message evidences the reasons why all who know you hold you in such affectionate esteem. Already you have rendered services of notable importance to your fellowmen, and your future labors in a broader sphere will earn the appreciation of your countrymen throughout the nation. With a sympathy that embraces every race and creed you have sought to be helpful to humanity and faithful to every public trust. Your message will be cordially appreciated by the folks at home."

and Samuel Madow, brothers; Phillips Meyers and three girl stenographers, Miss Bertha Hurwitz of Dorchester, Miss Doris Bornstein and Miss Mary Levine, both of Chelsea.

"HANDS UP"

Into this outer office, without warning, stepped two of the holdup men, waving new automatic pistols. One robber was tall and about 28 years old. He seemed the leader. The second was shorter and younger.

"Be quiet! Not a word! And hold your hands up!" was the command given by the leader.

Samuel Madow, unconsciously starting toward him, found the gun shoved against his stomach.

"One more move and I'll kill you," said the bandit leader quietly.

Miss Horwitz screamed. "Don't move, let them take the money," as the door opened and the two other robbers entered. One, short and black haired, wore a mask made of a red bandana handkerchief.

DRAW GUN ON GIRL.

In front of him, a gun at her back and her hands in the air, walked Miss Mary Davidson of Chelsea, who had just completed the stairs. Fearing she would sound an alarm they had forced her to accompany them.

The new arrivals went quickly to the door of the home office, evidently fully aware of what lay behind it. Flinging it open they covered Miss Helland and Abraham Madow with their guns.

The masked robber, who police believe feared recognition, carried a large black bag. Into this he swept the bills on the table.

2 CARS USED.

They moved again into the outer office and, while one remained behind to keep the group covered, the other three fled down the stairs. Their warning not to move, the fourth joined them and the sedan roared down Tyler st., in a cloud of dust, toward Charlestown.

The few witnesses of the getaway say the car bore no number plates.

An alarm was immediately broadcast and Boston, Chelsea, Revere, Medford and Somerville police patrolled the main traffic arteries on motorcycles without result. Authorities believe the blue sedan was driven but a short distance to a "hideout" where all the robbers transferred to another car.

BLOODHOUNDS SCOUR COUNTRY FOR LOST CO-ED

Waukesha, Wis., June 20 (INS)—Bloodhounds scoured the countryside today in a search for a trace of Margaret Fitzgerald, 18-year-old Marquette University co-ed, who disappeared from her farm home near Mapleton, Wis., while attired only in a nightgown, and Miss Margaret, in the opinion of Dist. Atty. Harman Salen, was dragged from the front yard of her home through soggy marsh and to an automobile. Evidence of a man were imprinted in the soft earth near her home.

Smith's 'Trouble Clauses'

"IT IS well known that I believe there should be fundamental changes in the present provisions for national prohibition, based, as I stated in my Jackson Day letter, on the fearless application of Jeffersonian democracy.

"While I fully appreciate that these changes can only be made by the people themselves through their elected legislative representatives, I feel it to be the duty of the chosen leader of the people to point the way which, in his opinion, leads to the sane, sensible solution of a condition which I am convinced is entirely unsatisfactory to the great mass of our people.

"Common honesty compels us to admit that corruption of law enforcement officials, bootlegging and lawlessness are now prevalent throughout this country.

"I am satisfied that without returning to the old evils that grew from the saloon, which years ago I held and still hold was and ought always to be a defunct institution in this country, by the application of the Democratic principles of local self-government and State rights we can secure real temperance, respect for law, and eradication of the existing evils."—From Alfred E. Smith's message to the Democratic convention.

ADLOW MAKES G. O. P. QUIT ON BALLOT PLAN

Their change of mind followed a ringing speech by Elijah Adlow of Boston, who served a solemn warning that it would be a fatal mistake to express such a preference.

Adlow's word won him the support of Congressmen Underhill, Luce, Gifford and Stobbs and the entire convention followed suit. By an overwhelming voice vote the delegates voted not to ballot on the nominees.

Adlow declared that there must be no head-picking of candidates by a party organization, in view of the primary law. A few days ago Governor Fuller had issued a statement calling the convention a direct violation of the primary law.

The purpose of the conference was to select a candidate who would be recommended to the G. O. P. voters for the primaries. Adlow pointed out that there had been a dearth of candidates, but now, with many in the field, the difficulty should no reason or right to make a choice.

Adlow's effect on the delegates was all the more remarkable because the questions of whether to ballot or not had come up earlier, in an indirect way, and the delegates had voted, in effect, to go ahead with their purpose.

JEANNE EAGELS HAS 'FRIGHT'

Chicago, June 30 (AP)—Jeanne Eagels, familiar to the footlights since the age of seven, appeared in a new role today and nearly succumbed to stage fright. The scene was laid in Superior Court here, with Miss Engels asking a divorce without alimony, property settlement or lawyer's fees from Ted Coy, erstwhile Yale football star.

The actress, whose voice sounded distinctly enough in the topmost balconies as the bold Sadie Thompson in "Rain," could scarcely be heard from the witness stand as she told of alleged cruel acts of her husband.

"You must keep your voice up," Judge Joseph Sabath requested.

"Think I've lost my voice," Miss Engels replied.

"You don't mean to tell me you're nervous," Judge Sabath added.

"I am, honestly—it's my first appearance."

She testified she considered Chicago her home and absented herself only when theatrical engagements required. She told of her marriage to Coy at Stamford, Conn., in 1925, and then how he had bruised her wrist during a quarrel the following January.

"Continuous quarreling" had been their lot since, "usually ending in threats or violence," said Miss Engels. She declared Coy had once knocked her down, dislocating her jaw.

Good help—the kind you want, and when you want it. You can depend on a Help Wanted Ad.

Dies After Collapse In Auto

Seized by a sudden illness after he had attended the wrestling bouts at the Boston Arena, Lewis L. Hannum, 45, vicepresident of the Pratt Coal Company, collapsed in his automobile and died before medical assistance could reach him.

Hannum complained of feeling ill on the way to the home of Thomas W. Wallace of 1711 Commonwealth ave., who had accompanied him to the wrestling matches.

At the Wallace home he met his wife and together they started for their home in Mount Vernon st. As the automobile got under way Hannum pitched forward in his seat unconscious.

Police of Station 14 notified Medical Examiner George B. Magrath, who ordered the body removed to the Northern Mortuary.

CITY OF LOWELL SHOWS GOOD FINANCIAL STATE

Lowell, June 30—The city of Lowell is in good financial condition, according to the annual report of the state auditors to Mayor Thomas J. Corbett and City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy.

The most important recommendation they make is that the deficit in the water department, existing over a long period of years, be taken care of with a special appropriation. It also is recommended that the city solicitor's office make effort to collect old bills the department and that those uncollectable should be abated.

Robinson Best Ring Man, Runyon Says

By DAMON RUNYON

Convention Hall, Houston, June 30—An Arkansaw traveler, the choleric Senator Joseph T. Robinson, is Al Smith's running mate on the Democratic ticket.

It's a good thing for the Republicans that the contest for the presidency and vice-presidency of these United States isn't to be decided in the ring arena. Senator Robinson could lick Herbert Hoover and Charley Curtis put together with one hand tied behind him, and then probably outpoint his sparring partner, Al, in an exhibition bout afterwards.

History tells us that the peppery, tempered Robinson once bested a Washington physician in a smart go on the Chevy Chase golf course some years ago, and took a news paper decision over a convention clerk out in San Francisco in 1920. As I recall it, the Senator had every round in this bout.

He was expelled by the boxing commission, or board of governors, or whoever are the head men of the swell Chevy Chase golf course after his battle with the medico, some claiming that the Senator tried to butt his man, or something, though I doubt if this accusation was ever substantiated.

In any event, if there's any other and elbow fighting to be done in this coming campaign, the Democratic nominee for the vice-presidency can do his share.

Senator Robinson, who is the Democratic leader of the United States Senate and chairman of the convention that picked him as Al's pal, was nominated on the first ballot. He got 914 1-2 votes on the roll call, and then switches came from the floor until he won up with about all the votes the convention had.

He is 55 years old, built like a brick henhouse, a golf nut and will fight at the drop of a hat. What's more, he will drop the bat himself. What a man!

BOSTON WATER RATES GO UP TOMORROW

All users of water from the city mains have been notified by postcard by the Public Works Department that rates have been advanced 2 per cent, effective tomorrow, July 1.

On the first 20,000 cubic feet, under the new schedule the rate increased from $1.54 to $1.84. On the second 20,000 cubic feet, the jump is from $1.43 to $1.71, and from the third 20,000 up to 1,000,000 cubic feet, from $1.32 to $1.58.

This increase is declared necessary because of an assessment of $288,000 on Boston by the State as part payment for cost of development of the Swift, Ware and Sudbury rivers.

The advance represents an increase $1.20 a year to the persons who ordinarily pay only the minimum of $9.80 a year. The many industrial and business houses whose annual water bills run into thousands of dollars, must bear the brunt of the advance. The Boston and Maine Railroad is probably the largest customer of the water department with an annual bill of nearly $46,000.

FUNERAL OF BOSTON PHYSICIAN IS HELD

Funeral services for Dr. Myles Standish of 256 Newbury st, for many years one of Boston's most noted eye specialists, were held at Mt. Auburn Cemetery Chapel in Cambridge. Rev. Christopher H. Iot conducted the services and organ selections were played by William Ellis Weston, an intimate family friend. The burial was in the Standish lot at Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mrs. Al Smith Meets Mrs. Joe Robinson

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

Houston, June 30—Mrs. Alfred E. Smith and Mrs. Joseph Robinson have now met socially.

Not until after the convention placed the names of Smith and Robinson together on one political ticket had the two ladies been introduced. After the enthusiasm of the solid South and other states had subsided, Mrs. Robinson paid a visit to the Smith box.

A quiet, gentle woman, who looks as if she never had bothered a mean thought, Mrs. Robinson, dressed in cool whits with a pink felt hat, grasped the hand of Mrs. Smith who wore a Catherine blue organdie gown with hat to match.

Lucky that Mrs. Smith had a free hand. She has been so busy receiving convention tokens of the hero-worshipping delegates that she looks absolutely exhausted.

AUTOGRAPHS STANDARDS

Some of the Washington delegates had the bright idea—that Mrs. Smith ought to autograph their State standard. Pennsylvania followed suit and in the twinkling of an eye poor Mrs. Smith had half the states represented on autograph.

I will say she is a good sport. She wrote "Mrs. Alfred E. Smith" until I longed to lend her my trusty typewriter.

She saw some of the New York newspaper girls she had known in the days before Al Smith ever dreamed of being President, and she gave us a wave of her hand. Some of the folks have the idea that Mrs. Smith has had every line written and prepared for her to say. If so, it's a mistake. She is perfectly natural and unaffected and she made a spontaneous little speech one evening at a gathering of the New York Newspaper Women's Club that would do credit to Al himself.

The miniature donkey Baby Houston thrust into her hands at the convention after her husband was nominated for President on the first ballot is already on his way to Albany, where he will have a place in the Smith menagerie. Poor little donkey! Looks too young to travel without its mother.

ALL HEADING FOR HOME

Everybody is talking home in one breath. Railroad agents have suspended favorite sons and railroad stations are now taking the place of convention halls.

Now that it is all over I believe it is safe to say that honors for being the wit of the convention go unanimously to former Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

If the little writers go stale in Hollywood he can supply enough wise cracks to keep motion pictures and prepared for her to say. If so, going a year.

SMITH TO TALK TO U. S. JUST AS HE DID TO N. Y.

Albany, June 30 (AP)—"Constructive statesmanship" will be the watchword of Governor Smith's campaign for the presidency.

"I don't know when the campaign is going to begin or what territory it will cover," the governor said, "but I do know that I will talk to the American people just as I've talked to the people of my own state in past campaigns."

And the way he has talked to New Yorkers, his intimates add, is to tell them what he plans to do if he is elected; to give them in plain language a picture of how he hopes to help them, and not to "run down the other fellow" so that Smith may seem strong by comparison.

"What he will do when he starts campaigning," one man close to the Governor in past political battles said, "is just to lay before the people how he thinks he can set so as to make the U. S. A. a little better place to live in."

There will be no "canned speeches," this man said, and there will be nobody telling the Governor what to say. He will figure out for himself exactly what he believes he can accomplish if he is elected, and he will state his case in the plain language for the approval of the voters.

The Governor was amazed at the number of telegrams that poured in on him, and perturbed that because of their number he would be unable to acknowledge each one personally.

"Is all my political career to end," he said, "I have always answered every telegram of congratulations with a signed letter."

"I have always felt this way about it, you can't write a telegram for less than a quarter and some of those from Houston and other places must run into a couple of dollars. Well, if anybody is glad enough to see you win to spend money to tell you so they must mean it. I'd like to thank everyone of them. But it would take months to do nothing but send letters to them. So please tell them in the papers that I appreciate their kind thoughts."

Smith's Message Unwise, Ill-Timed, Says Daniels

Raleigh, N. C., June 30 (AP)—Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, in a dispatch to the Raleigh News and Observer characterized the telegram of Governor Smith accepting the Democratic nomination as "unnecessary and ill timed."

"An good feeling and unity prevailed," the statement said, "the apple of discord was thrown into the peaceful convention by the unwise letter from Governor Smith. Time was needed for healing wounds. Instead, before disappointment of those who doubted the wisdom of his nomination could be removed, the Smith letter irritated the situation.

"As it called for no action, it was not like the celebrated Parker message to the St. Louis convention to which some have compared it. It was not the letter that disastrously defeated Parker, and the Smith letter will not defeat Smith. It seems to make harder the unity so much talked about in the convention."

Mr. Daniels was a member of the platform committee of the Houston convention and drew up the platform stated strenuously on a dry plank.

Both Party Platforms "Bunk," Declare Farmers

Cedar Rapids, Ia., June 30 (INS)—That both national conventions stood wide of the mark with platform promises designed to satisfy the farmer is evident from a summary of opinion gathered throughout agricultural Iowa.

The consensus of Iowa farmers is summed up in these words: "Both platforms deal in platitudes and bunk. The Republicans and the Democrats promise us the stars and moon, but neither party assures us that the productivity of the earth shall earn us a living."

The agricultural element, represented by the farm belt committeemen, will meet in Des Moines in July, when the fireworks are expected to be set off. It was this committee that started the agitation for farm relief two years ago.

FINANCIER WEDS BRITISH STAR

New Canaan, Ct., June 20 (AP)—The marriage of Maude Titheradge, an English actress, and Edgar Pack, New York financier, was announced today by Vernon T. Baker of New York, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Maude Titheradge, who was born in Melbourne, Australia, in 1887, began her stage career in the Garrick Theater, London, in 1902. She made her first American appearance in New York in 1912, returning to London in 1914.

During 1918-20 she was in moving picture acting for the Famous Players. Some of her successes were in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "The Camel's Back," "The Hotel Mouse," "The Garden of Allah," "Othello," "Monsieur Beaucaire."

SAYS TWO BANDITS ROBBED HIM OF $39

Ware, June 30 (AP)—John Herard, a young man whose home is in North Brookfield, reported to the police today that two armed and masked highwaymen held him up after midnight in West Warren and robbed him of $39. He said he was returning from a dance in Ware and had just left at her house a young woman who had accompanied him to the dance. The men leaped to the running board and made him stop the car. One held a gun on him and the other searched him.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; slightly cooler tonight; moderate southwest winds, shifting to west or northwest Sunday.

BABY RUN OVER BY TROLLEY, NOT KILLED

Knocked down and run over by a trolley car on South st., Jamaica Plain, three-year-old Bernard Lennon of Woodman st., escaped death, although he was seriously injured.

The forward part of the car passed over him, but the lifeboard in front of the wheels saved him. He was wedged under the lifeboard and the car had to be jacked up.

The accident occurred at South and Custer sts. when the tot ran across the street while on his way to the store with a girl of 10. Motorman James Jordan slapped on his brakes and made a quick stop.

The crew of Ladder 16 of the fire department, Jordan assisting him, picked up the car. When the boy was removed he was taken to City Hospital by Patrolman Kalzes, Fireman William Dundon and Miss Anna Kelly, a nurse living on Acorn circle, who gave first aid. He has a possible fracture of the skull and serious contusions and abrasions of the legs, but his name is not on the danger list.

Boring Bungholes In Dry Planks

Looks like the crown jewels of America will consist of a brown derby studded with compromises.

The Democrats didn't say much about the liquor question. They didn't want to spill it.

Kansas City also preserved a liquid silence about booze.

* * *

The trouble with the entire situation is that every time a bootlegger is arrested he is either a Democrat or a Republican.

They should have accepted the Buck Baer compromise on the rum rebus.

We dashed into executive session and suggested an idea that would have pleased both wet and dry.

* * *

That was a dry plank with a bunghole in it.

* * *

We must object to Democratic abuse of the last two putrid administrations as unfair to organized bribery.

* * *

The Republicans can't abuse the brown derby is on a saxophone.

Democrats in return because the Democrats haven't had time to be bad during the last eight years.

* * *

This convention lasted four days. That's seventeen days less than the frankfurter eating contest in Madison Square Garden.

There were some great speeches during this convention. The Democratic orators work the chain system. Each one explains what the previous guy said.

Robinson is a fighter. He holds a decision over a golf partner on the Chevy Chase links. He also whipped a convention clerk at San Francisco in 1920.

They say Hoover cannot make a speech. That will not stop him and Curtis from getting on the radio and jigging duets.

The Democratic leaders showed no shyness in picking a slate. They've been taking it for eight years.

We don't think the flappers will vote for Al. Every intelligent American girl knows that the place for a brown derby is on a saxophone.

REPUBLICANS IN SMITH PARADE AT ALBANY

Albany, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—Marching blithely through a summer rain several hundred business men and neighbors of Governor Alfred E. Smith carried to the Executive Mansion today their congratulations on his nomination for the presidency.

"I fully appreciate the responsibilities placed upon me," he said, as his hearers looked up at him from under their umbrellas.

"I hope to give an account of myself that will justify the feeling of pride that came to my family and friends and to the people of this city and State when the word of my nomination was flashed from Texas.

"Public life is hard work, day and night, but it has its rewards in the downright friendship, loyalty and devotion of many with whom one comes in contact.

"I appreciate the spontaneous feeling that brought you here today. I love Albany because I have seen it grow. Why, the first time I came to this house I came in a sleigh. There wasn't any automobiles.

"When I leave Albany I shall do so with a wet eye, but I will be leaving part of my family here and that will serve as an excuse to get back here just as often as it is possible."

After the belief addresses about 30 boys of grammar school age swarmed up over the porch railing and the governor shook hands with them, holding the little two-year-old grandson, Arthur, in his arms.

Then the members of the Chamber of Commerce, which furnished the parade, filed by and were greeted by the executive.

"The governor was introduced to the gathering as a "big brother of mankind" by Rollin B. Sanford, former Republican congressman from the Albany district.

"We are not here as Republicans or Democrats, not as wets or drys," Sanford told the governor, "but merely as your friends who love you."

WOMAN HAS CLOSE CALL AS AUTO DIVES IN BROOK

New Haven, Ct., June 30 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Hendricks of Oyster Bay, L. I., narrowly escaped serious injury here today when the auto in which she was riding with her husband and two other persons plunged from the roadway down a 15-foot embankment, overturning in a brook and sinking her down. The other three were thrown clear of the machine. When Mrs. Hendricks was extricated she was found to have suffered only minor bruises.

Beery's Command to Love

Wallace Beery's manner of proposing to the girl who is now his wife has become famous in Hollywood. They were both working in "Robin Hood" and the big fellow was smitten. Striding grimly over to the lady he waggled one finger and declared, "Some day, young woman, I'm going to marry you!"

SUMMER DOLDRUMS FASTEN ON PROSTRATE DRAMA---TIRELESS FILMS GRIND ON

BE NOT DECEIVED, this is not the usual cooing dove number. Watch! Eleanor Boardman is all set to yank the outer strand of Lawrence Gray's four-in-hand and just strangle him cute as you please. ("Diamond Handcuffs," State).

THE BOOB ALWAYS PAYS! Wallace Beery, whose business it is to eminently represent the Great American Dunderhead, illustrates how to be perfectly silly in public. Mary Brian is the girl with the high priced tiers of smokes. The film is "Partners in Crime" at the Olympia, Scollay and Fenway.

"THE COUNT OF TEN" at the Keith-Albee Boston is a film in which Charlie Ray simply gazes at Jobyna Ralston and knows he is completely vanquished. Millions would gladly share his defeat." And if this be treason, etc.

THE HOUSE OF SAND does not last. Neither does the spirit of this pretty scene, for in "No Other Woman" at the Metropolitan Ban Bard and Dolores Del Rio go dramatic and emote to beat the band. Be sure to bring your most serious expression when seeing this.

HIGH STRUNG DRAMA FOR DOLORES

"No Other Woman," the new occupant of the Metropolitan screen, is not one of those films that belies its title. It is just as it sounds—a typical movie.

As its director, Lou Tellegen proves beyond question that he is a much better actor. His principal exhibits are bathing suits. Dolores Del Rio, a shot or two of Biarritz and many long, tense, unwieldy close-ups.

The story purposes to show how the idle rich fritter away their time. A girl walks out on the man she is about to marry because the villain "framed" him with a siren. Then she marries the rascal, and persists in sticking to him even after it is proved that he had played her false.

Mr. Tellegen has allowed his players to "emote" to the limit. The best screen directors have abandoned these heaving dramatics sometime ago. They are not being done this season.

Ben Bard, as the villain, has a well nigh impossible role. Don Alvarado as the hero nearly cracks under the strain of his "emotions," and the lustrous star herself is in no way helped by the ineffective material. Nevertheless, the Del Rio fans are many, the public is generally inclined to be lenient with its favorites. And why not?

There is a good stage show at the "Met" this week, as it. If Burnside production called "Ocean Blues." In it the celebrated black-face comedy team, Moss and Fry, are still trying to figure exactly "how high is up." The stage piece is further enlivened by Scanlon, Demas and Scanlon, agile dancers, and a smart covey of Foster show girls.

An organ solo and the usual assortment of short films complete the entertainment.

FILM TEAM ON THREE HUB SCREENS

Partners in comedy and kinsmen in tastes, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton are as like as two flivvers in a street car and yet as different as red is from blue.

The pair are real partners in Paramount's new comedy of the under-world, "Partners in Crime," which will show at the Olympia, Scollay and Fenway next week.

It is in their physical proportions that the members of this famous comedy team differ so widely. In most other respects nature cast them in the same mould.

Beery is six feet one inch in height. Hatton stretches to five feet five inches.

Beery weighs 235 pounds. When he isn't working too hard, Hatton tips the beam just an even 100 pounds under that figure.

Beery likes to spend all of his time between pictures roughing it in the mountains. Hatton has a hunting lodge in the California Sierras that never suffers loneliness.

When he was 16 years old, Beery left home to join a circus and two years later went on the stage.

At the age of 15 Hatton left home to join a theatrical company.

Beery was successful in stage drama and as a musical comedy star. Hatton toured for years with a theatrical stock company and was highly successful on the stage.

THE TALKIES ARE COMING

Talking moving pictures are at last a reality. The first of the species to show in Boston is Charles Klein's famous stage play, "The Lion and the Mouse," which will be presented at the Washington Street Olympia and the Fenway theaters begin next Sunday with Lionel Barrymore leading the cast.

Lionel Barrymore

While Klein wrote "The Lion and the Mouse" more than 20 years ago, the play is timely in this day as it deals with politics, the power of an unscrupulous captain of finance, and graft. All the preparations for the screening of "The Lion and the Mouse" were made with a view of utilizing Vitaphone to as great an extent as practicable. It is noticeable that in this connection many of the people entrusted with carrying on the dialogue in the dramatic scenes are players who gained recognition on the speaking stage before entering the motion picture field. Lionel Barrymore is cast in the role of Ready Money Ryder; May McAvoy plays Shirley Rossmore; William Collier, Jr., has the part of Jefferson Ryder, and Emmett Corrigan enacts the character of Dr. Hays. Alec Francis, Jack Ackroyd and others are in the cast.

Rehearsing New Farce Comedy at the Copley

"Don't Tell George," a farce comedy in three acts, written by Dwight Taylor, will be given its first production on any stage at the Copley Theatre, following the engagement of "He Walked in Her Sleep."

No definite date has as yet been decided, due to the continued popularity of Mr. Cannon's current farce, which will soon round out the second month on an all-together healthy engagement at Mr. Clive's Stuart st. theatre.

The romantic histories of famous diamonds, from the time of the fabled Golconda to the modern Hope diamond, with its trial intrigue, tragedy and mystery, formed the research for "Diamond Handcuffs," Cosmopolitan's gripping new drama of love, diamonds and the underworld, coming Monday to Loew's State.

Gwen Lee

The story centers about a great diamond, tracing its adventures from its discovery in the African mines through intrigue, theft and into the mazes of the underworld. Much of its detail is based on actual history.

The first famous diamond, the Golconda, found in India, was a world mystery. So nearly as can be ascertained it was finally cut into three gems, one of which, the Orloff, being stolen from an Indian idol, and presented by a Russian prince to Catherine II. It is the center of many grim stories. Another piece formed the Koh-i-noor, later presented to Queen Victoria.

The famous Cullinan diamond, the Jubilee, another huge stone, and the Hope diamond, recently in the limelight, are others which have given rise to many tales of the sinister spells behind these stones.

The new picture traces the tale of one famous diamond. Gwen Lee and Eleanor Boardman have the principal feminine roles. John McCarthy, director of "The Lovelorn" and "Becky," directed the new play at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

NORUMBEGA PARK

The Kahazawa Japs, troupe of Japanese jugglers, will be the principal attraction at Norumbega Park next week. There will also be pictures and vaudeville in the open-air theater and various midway diversions.

RINES, BAND TAKING TO TWO-A-DAY

Joe Rines and his merry musicians, heard over the radio from WEEI and WNAC all winter, will abandon the air for a time and appear in vaudeville. Joe and his band are the headliners this week at the Keith-Albee, Boston.

"A band leader is passe," claims Mr. Rines, "whereas only stock-in-trade is music—he must be a showman as well."

Joe Rines has proved himself both as a musician and a showman. He has played several instruments in the most famous bands of the country, Paul Whiteman's and Paul Specht's.

"I learned a few things about music from Whiteman and Specht," continued Joe, "but what is most valuable is 'show business.' When listening to a band in a theater, audiences want to be diverted. No matter how excellent the program, people will think better of it if the leader sways and contorts to the rhythm of the Congo—or whatever place it is that jazz is supposed to come from—and is able to play the various band instruments to show his "versatility."

Joe Rines

Joe Rines' act at the Keith-Albee Boston this week will include his well known "diversions" and a pleasing program of popular music as well.

NEWS FLASHES FOR THEATER PATRONS

A president is elected. A great liner strikes upon a submerged iceberg. A climax is reached in a thrilling trial which has occupied the attention of the world. The Atlantic is crossed by air. The Braves win a game.

News! News! The public must have it while it is still news. Not tomorrow or the next day, but now!

That's the functions of a newspaper, and that's what one group of newspapers always accomplishes.

Always first, the Hearst Boston newspapers, the Boston Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser, are first again with the most ingenious news service yet devised for the reading public of the community.

IN 60 THEATERS

In 60 motion picture theaters of Greater Boston, starting Monday night, last minute news bulletins covering important events will be flashed on the silver screen. Bulletins received hours after the printing of the latest evening newspaper, and hours before the appearance of the earliest morning paper, will be issued regularly to these theaters and their patrons.

Nights, Sundays, holidays, 365 days a year, this system of news flashes will be maintained as an added feature of service maintained in the interest of the public.

Audiences in motion picture theaters of Greater Boston can now feel assured that no event of importance in the civilized world can pass without their knowledge. The thousands of eyes and ears of the huge Hearst, International News, and other exclusive agencies, and of the thousands of correspondents and reporters on the associated newspapers are ever alert.

Flashed by telegraph, telephone, radio and cable, the news of the world is assembled. It passes through a new department specially created to handle the motion picture news flash service. The striking news of the moment is condensed, put into terse words, and hurried by wire to the 60 motion picture houses. In a twinkling, the bulletins are before the eyes or pounding at the ears of the theater audiences.

A ZEAL TO SERVE

By means of slides in some theaters, and by public address or Vitaphone systems in others, the news of the moment reaches the public within a matter of minutes after its actual occurrence.

Credit should be given to the managers of those motion picture houses whose zeal to serve their patrons has prompted them to take advantage of this Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser news service.

Undoubtedly many others will wish to avail themselves of the service, and it is freely open to all theaters within a reasonable radius of Boston. If your favorite theater has not arranged for the news flash service on its regular daily program, call it to the attention of the manager. It is yours for the asking.

The following are the Greater Boston theaters which will inaugurate the new Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser news bulletin service next Monday evening:

Keith-Albee, Washington, Globe, Park, Olympic, Columbia, National and Strand, in Boston; University, Durrell Hall, in Cambridge; Somerville, Ball Square, Central, Capitol, Olympia, in Somerville; Capitol, in Arlington; Coolige, Strand, in Watertown; Andresen, in Mattapan; Dorchester and Hamilton, in Dorchester; Melrose Theater, in Melrose.

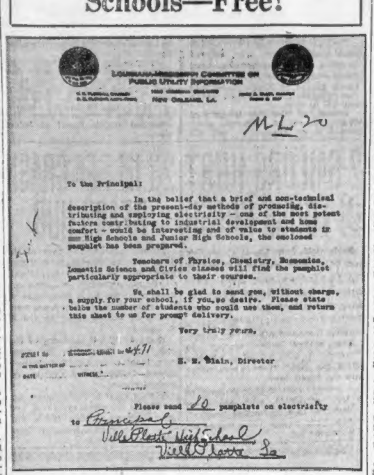
Power Propaganda for Schools—Free!



LOUISIANA-MISSISSIPPI COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC UTILITY INFORMATION
New Orleans, La.

M L 20

To the Principal:

In the belief that a brief and non-technical description of the present-day methods of producing, distributing and employing electricity — one of the most factors contributing to industrial development and home comfort — would be interesting and of value to students in our High Schools and Junior High Schools, the enclosed pamphlet has been prepared.

Teachers of Physics, Chemistry, Economics, Domestic Science and Civics classes will find the pamphlet particularly appropriate to their courses.

We shall be glad to send you, without charge, a supply for your school, if you so desire. Please state below the number of students who could use them, and return this sheet to us for prompt delivery.

Very truly yours,

E. H. Blain, Director

Please send 40 pamphlets on electricity to Principal Villa Pleste Hill School Villa Pleste Ga

THIS "sales letter" was used by Dr. H. M. Blain, director of the propaganda bureau maintained by electric power and light and other utility interests in Louisiana and Mississippi to promote use of his pamphlets in high schools. Teachers of economics and civics were among those for whom he recommended it. A high school principal could get the pamphlets by merely filling in at the bottom of the form letter the number wanted and the address. The letter is an official exhibit in the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the so-called Power Trust.

TELLS OF POWER TRUST 'BUYING' FELLOWSHIPS

Washington, June 30—Michigan utilities corporations maintained fellowships in engineering and electric transmission in the colleges of that State, Alfred Fisher former director of the utilities information bureau, declared today before the Federal Trade Commission.

A fellowship in senior engineering worth $1000 annually was maintained in the University of Michigan by the Michigan Gas Association, and a transmission fellowship in another school by the Detroit-Edison Company, according to Fisher.

Fisher disclosed that a program of public educational information, which had been planned by the Michigan utilities companies, had not been carried out entirely.

Fisher denied the committee had paid speakers or college professors, but admitted that a speakers' bureau was maintained, with most of the members officials of the utilities corporations of the State.

The Michigan information bureau was maintained by the Gas and Electric Light Associations of the State, according to the testimony.

Fisher disclosed that his bureau was on a budget basis of finances and that it spent from $11,000 to $14,000 annually.

Fisher had no recollection of utilities courses having been introduced in any of the Michigan colleges, although one was proposed for the University of Detroit.

Friendly contracts were maintained with the newspaper editors of the State, according to Fisher. A letter he had written to Edward J. Coney of the Lowell, Mass. Gas Light Company indicated that his calls on editors were of a social nature but for the purpose of seeing that "everything is healthy as far as utilities are concerned." The letter added that he calls had a "special technique."

Fisher declared his bureau obtained considerable favorable publicity for the utility companies through a state editorial service.

He denied his bureau subsidized the editorial service but admitted the Consumers Power Company paid $150 a month to the service. This company is one of the utilities that contributed to the support of the bureau.

NEW ZONE NOW HUNTED FOR AMUNDSEN

London, June 30—The search for Capt. Roald Amundsen, noted arctic explorer, who had been missing for almost two weeks, today shifted to the region between Bear Island and Spitsbergen.

A report received at Oslo, Norway, from Ibestad, Norway, stated that several fishermen returning from an expedition to Bear Island declared they saw the French seaplane Latham about 60 miles northeast of the island on the night of June 18.

Bear Island is about halfway between Tromsoe, Norway, and the southern coast of Spitsbergen. Amundsen, Major Rene Guilbaud, Lieut. Dietrichsen and two others left Tromsoe in the Latham on the morning of the eighteenth to search for General Nobile and his crew.

Shifting Ice Packs Add to Peril of Nobile Men

Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, June 30 (AP)—Ice conditions about the encampment of the survivors of the Italia were getting worse today and adding to their peril. Fog prevented airmen from approaching them, but hopes were held that better conditions would soon prevail, as the weather was improving.

The wind and currents drove the marooned men nine miles to the east had today they were nearly nine miles north of Grand Island and east of Cape Leigh Smith.

A small Swedish fishing boat set out from Hinlopen strait in an attempt to reach the castaways, but was driven back by the fog. The Icebreaker Braganza, with two Norwegian fliers aboard, was still blocked by the ice at North Cape.

Fishin' Is Good for Soul, Hoover's Doctrine

Washington, June 30 (INS)—Herbert Hoover once prepared a booklet on fishing, urging that the game fisheries of America be restored. The Bureau of Fisheries, under his jurisdiction, has been contributing to this objective for years.

"The reason for it all is that fishing is good for the soul of man," Hoover said, reflecting a belief shared by President Coolidge and Governor Smith.

"Man and boy, the American is a fisherman.

"The comprehensive list of human rights, the Declaration of Independence, is firm that all men, and boys, are endowed with certain inalienable rights, including life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, which obviously includes the pursuit of fish."

Hoover's philosophy says "all men are equal before fish," and fishing is not entirely a rich man's sport.

"But I ask you if in the face of all this overwhelming efficiency and progress is there less time between bites?" said Hoover. "Yes, it is too long between bites we must have more fish in proportion to the water."

Hoover said every fisherman is entitled to catch 50 fish a season, under the American constitution.

The fishing document also contains this strange statement: "Fishermen are not liars."

U. S. CAPTIVE IN MEXICO FREE

Mexico City, June 30 (AP)—El Universal Grafico says it is reported that W. E. Mitchell, one of two Americans kidnaped last week, has escaped. Mitchell and John F. Hooper were captured near Guadalajara and held for $1500 ransom. The United States embassy, which instructed the consulate at Guadalajara to report all developments in the kidnaping, had no confirmation of the rumor.

She's a Broncho Buster

Plainfield, N. J., June 30 (AP)—Alice May Sisty, 21, has come all the way home from Reno by broncho. She used three of them.

SUICIDE TRY DUE TO QUARREL

St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 30—Harriet Streeter, formerly of Brattleboro, is recovering today at Brightlook Hospital following her attempted suicide by shooting in a Railroad st. lodging house.

The reason for the act, as given to Sheriff Fred Flint, was that she had been keeping company with a young man and during a little quarrel he objected to her going with another man, and she reached for the revolver and fired the shot.

He did not know that she had recovered possession of it, since he had previously taken it away from her for trying this same act before earlier in the year.

NABBED TWICE IN 9 HOURS ON RUM CHARGES

Twice within nine hours James Roberts, of Essex st., Malden, was arrested for alleged illegal transportation of liquor.

Federal agents took him into custody just before midnight in Everett where it is charged he was carrying eleven five-gallon cans of moonshine in an automobile. He was bailed and must appear before federal authorities Monday.

Malden police stopped him with exactly the same amount of liquor, but a different automobile on Eastern ave. shortly after 8 today. He pleaded guilty and was fined $150.

The second arrest resulted in a raid on a house on Eastern ave., where one gallon of liquor, a quantity of mash and manufacturing paraphernalia were seized.

An arrest will be made in this connection.

CARDINAL, ARCHBISHOP TACCI IS DEAD IN ROME

Rome, June 30 (AP)—Cardinal John Tacci, archbishop of Nicea, is dead. He was 84 years old.

Cardinal Tacci was apostolic delegate at Constantinople from 1904 to 1907 when he became papal nuncio in Belgium. In 1916 he was major domo of the Holy See and in 1918 became prefect of sacred palaces. He received the red hat on June 16, 1921.

COURT ORDERS 20-DAY DANCE END TONIGHT

New York, June 30 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Valente today issued an order calling for cessation at midnight of the "dance marathon" now in its 20th day at Madison Square Garden.

Nine weary couples continued shuffling along today, the 20th day of the contest. Police had been prevented earlier by injunction from stopping the Marathon.

The injunction, issued by Supreme Court Justice Levy and returnable today, was served on police officers at 2 o'clock this morning when they went to enforce order of Dr. Louis I. Harris, city health commissioner, that the dance be stopped on the ground that it was "a menace to health and safety."

The 18 dancers, who continued their ceaseless routine of one hour and then resting 15 minutes, were the survivors of 21 couples who entered the contest on June 10 for a prize of $5000.

The contest attracted but sparse patronage during its first month of weeks, but lately has been attracting increased attendance, and several thousand persons have been in attendance the last few nights.

GEO. MURRAY IS LAID TO REST

"Georgie" Murray, well-known newspaper cameraman, took his last journey today.

Escorted by 25 fellow members of the staff of the Boston Post, headed by City Editor Edward J. Dunn and Assistant City Editor Joseph Carlin, his body was borne to its last resting place in Holywood Cemetery Brighton.

Solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Peter's Church, Meeting House Hill, the cortege having proceeded there from the Murray home at 8 Whitby ter., Dorchester.

Rev. Cornelius Mason was celebrant, Rev. Leo O'Dea, deacon, and Rev. John A. Coughlin, sub-deacon. The pallbearers, all from the Boston Post, were Morris Fineberg, Clarence Finn, Frank Supple, Roy Atkinson, Frank M. Fay and David Shea.

In addition to the delegation from the Post, there were numerous newspapermen from other papers present at the services.

'BLUEBEARD' IS TRAILED BY RUM

Marseilles, France, June 30 (AP)—A trail of drinks from Marseilles to Africa led to the arrest in Algiers of the alleged bluebeard of Southern France. He was identified today as Pierre Rey, alias Jerome Prat. He was accused of the murder of three fiancees.

For four days, Rey fled with the police looking for him throughout France. He bought drinks for everyone he met. He treated chauffeurs and porters and even invited a passing policeman to drink with him when he must have known that the whole force was tracking him.

Algiers police telegraphed that Rey admitted he was the man wanted, and that he still carried a woman's watch, supposedly belonging to one of his victims. He also had a check for 12,000 francs obtained from one of the three women whose bodies police found buried.

CALLS UP SMITH FROM "LAND OF MIDNIGHT SUN"

Albany, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Among the hundreds of other messages of congratulations to Governor Smith on his nomination was one telephoned from Copenhagen, Denmark, by Bruce Kraemer, of the Lambs Club. The call was received late last night at the executive mansion.

Kraemer opened his conversation by telling the governor he was telephoning "from the land of the midnight sun at 3 o'clock in the morning with the sun shining brightly."

After receiving the greeting, Governor Smith asked if Mr. Kraemer was coming home to vote. Kraemer told the governor he did not think he would need his vote.

"I'll take them all," the governor replied.

2 HELD AS RUM-RUNNERS; $1000 IN WINE SEIZED

St. Albans, Vt., June 30 (AP)—Philip A. Gallant and Tony Petralia, both of Burlington, were arrested by immigration patrolmen at Alburg when their car was found to contain 200 bottles of wine valued at $1000, a report to customs headquarters here today said. They were brought here and arraigned before Commissioner C. D. Watson. Each is held under $500 bail.

Gallant Thugs Refuse to Steal Girl's Gems

Springfield, June 30—Two chivalrous masked men who refused to rob a girl of her jewelry, were being sought today for holding up Louis Huard of North Brookfield and relieving him of a gold watch and $40 in cash.

Huard and Miss Mae Hickory of Ware rd., West Warren, were seated in an automobile, 405 100 feet from the girl's home, when the bandits appeared.

After taking Huard's money and watch, according to the police, the bandits left him his diamond ring, and refused to take the jewelry worn by Miss Hickory. They then ordered Huard to turn his car and drive in the direction of Ware. He complied under threat of being shot.

2 SAILORS HURT IN TRUCK CRASH

Springfield, June 30—E. G. Dudley and W. Zucker, sailors attached to the Charlestown navy yard, were seriously injured today when the navy department truck they were driving overturned in West Warren, pinning them beneath the wreckage.

A passing autoist took the men to a local physician, who had them transferred to a Springfield hospital, where their names were placed on the danger list.

23 IN SEA CRASH REACH HUB

Twenty-three of the crew of the S. S. Grecian, Merchants & Miners liner, beached off Monomoy Point, Chatham, yesterday, following collision with the S. S. Evangeline of the Eastern Steamship Line, were landed in Boston today by the S. S. Ontario.

Eight additional members of the crew were taken off by the Monomoy Point Coast Guard and seven others, including her captain, remained aboard.

The freighter is in no danger, according to the company offices, and steam pumps, diving tackle and other wreck paraphernalia have been placed aboard.

WOMAN LEADS 27 PLANES IN U. S. AIR TOUR

Detroit, June 30 (AP)—Taking off into a cloudless sky, a woman pilot, Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie of Memphis, Tenn., led the way for more than a score of airplanes participating in the national air tour that began at the Ford airport today.

Flying a monocoupe, the "flivver" plane of the fleet, Mrs. Amlie left the ground at a signal from Edsel B. Ford at 10:15 a. m.

The others were sent off at one-minute intervals on the journey that is to cover some 4000 miles through the Southwest along the west coast and back along the northern border of the United States.

Twenty-seven new planes started on the tour, which is the fourth annual renewal of a contest to test the reliability and efficiency of commercial airplanes.

Their first stop is Indianapolis, where they expected to land soon after noon. From there they were to fly to St. Louis, the first night control point.

A colorful airplane "Derby Day" crowd of 10,000 to 15,000 persons cheered as the fleet paraded down the field to the starting line.

The long journey will end here July 28.

Lewis Wins Mat Bout When Sonnenberg Is Injured

DYNAMITE HAS CHAMPION ON VERGE OF DEFEAT

By JACK CONWAY

Gus Sonnenberg is today at the Trumbull Hospital, Brook line, suffering from a serious head concussion after coming within inches of winning the world's heavyweight wrestling championship from Strangler Lewis in a sensational match at the Arena under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Sonnenberg had scored the first fall in 37m. 30s. with his famous flying tackle.

When wrestling was resumed, Dynamite once more tried to count with a flying tackle. Lewis kept moving around and when Sonnenberg, like a shell shot from the mouth of a cannon, came crashing through the air the champion sidestepped. Sonnenberg went hurtling between the second and the top rope. Going at tremendous speed, his body fairly flew over this writer's head as I sat in the press row.

Jack Conway

The Dynamiter crashed to the floor three feet behind the press row. At first his arms and feet moved as though he were trying to get at Lewis. He then lapsed into unconsciousness and he was carried to his dressing room where medical aid was called.

Sonnenberg's condition was considered so serious that it was decided to remove him to the Trumbull Hospital. It was at first feared that he had suffered a partial fracture of the skull in addition to his concussion.

REFEREE PAT McGILL awarded Lewis a fall when it was found necessary to remove Sonnenberg to his dressing room. The time of the fall was 39 seconds.

When McGill was notified that Sonnenberg was being removed to a hospital he gave the verdict to Lewis.

It was a case of where the champion's title was once more saved by a lucky break. It is likely that Sonnenberg would have won if he had not fallen a victim to the champion's trickery.

A crowd of 13,000 persons witnessed the title bout. The gate receipts hit $32,000. It was the biggest house in both attendance and receipts in the history of New England wrestling.

SONNENBERG displayed the same fury in attack that enabled him to become an All-American football tackler. He was a fighting, snarling challenger determined to wrest the title from the champion's brow.

During the first half of the contest, the Dynamiter forced Lewis from one corner of the ring to another. He was on top of him at all times.

Lewis cringed as Sonnenberg dove for his legs. At times the title holder crawled through the ropes to avoid the mighty rushes of the sturdy son of Dartmouth.

Sonnenberg surprised Lewis by showing he knew more about the mat game than merely going for a flying tackle. Gus clamped on headlocks, spilled arms locks, twisted the champion's legs and all but broke his toes.

ONE could hardly blame Lewis for running away, stalling and using every trick he knew of to keep him out of Sonnenberg's way.

Sonnenberg was not to be denied. After the half hour mark had been passed, he speeded up in his work. Lewis kept sidestepping and running away. Finally Gus slowed the champion down by butting him in the stomach several times.

Lewis grasped for breath. Like a colt out of the blue, the Dynamiter's feet left the floor. His body hurtled forward, his arms circling the champion's legs. Lewis went crashing to the canvas, the wind knocked out of him. Before he could recover an arm bar and a half nelson had pinned him to the mat.

The huge crowd went wild when it was announced Sonnenberg had won the first fall. Gus hurried to his dressing room, but it was fully five minutes before Lewis could get up.

LEWIS apparently figured Sonnenberg would try to score another flying tackle when hostilities were resumed. He probably intentionally manoeuvred himself near the ropes so that when he would sidestep the Dynamiter would go crashing to the floor. Strategy has always been an important factor in Lewis' work.

FARMER GEORGE McLEOD evened up his score with John Fryberg when he tossed the Swedish wrestler with a flying head scissors in 35m. 20s.

Stanley Stasiak and Joe Malcewicz engaged in a stirring 30m draw.

Charley Hansen and Bill Komar went 35m. to a draw.

John Spellman and Joe Dominguez engaged in another 15m. draw.

Waino Ketonen, middleweight champion, defeated Jack Singer of St. Louis in 6m. 20s. A double arm lock and leg scissors did the job.

DAREDEVIL SPEEDSTERS AT ROCKINGHAM PARK

READY TO TRY FOR NEW MARKS

Earl Devore, on left, has a few of the gadgets from his delicate racing car ready to replace after an overhauling. Fred Comer is all ready to try out his chariot with a few fast laps around the spruce oval. The race drivers take wonderful care of their machines. Constant tinkering keeps the cars in as good condition as is possible. The boys take plenty of chances driving. So they don't get careless about the condition of the little Motors. It doesn't pay when one is about to travel 130 miles per hour. The first time trials are he ld today. They continue over Monday and Tuesday. The cars hit their top speed in these tests.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

As long as the Boston Retail Stores hold golf tournaments, the members will hark back to the eighth annual, which was played at the Unicorn Country Club yesterday, as the day of the big rain.

It rained from the start to the finish, but up to a late hour last night, a most diligent search had failed to uncover anyone who quit.

A year ago, the authorities called off the New England open because of rain but the Boston Retail Stores Association must be composed of tougher talent for nobody even mentioned calling off their tournament. Despite the rain, the cold and the unfavorable conditions, a field of 85 golfers trudged their way around the Unicorn course.

Fred Wood of Filene's was one of the early starters and although what is generally termed a Scotch Mist was falling when he started, the Hatherley player was not bothered by the elements until after he reached the turn.

Wood was out in 37, some golf, especially at Unicorn, but how he came home. He was 88 for the round so you can figure for yourself how many blows he took to get back.

Bob Mitten of Jordan Marsh upset the works at the 4th. He drove into the trap and was apparently out of the money, but a fine explosive shot lodged him in the cup for a birdie 3.

Jack McCarthy of Filene's carried away the first gross prize of Class A. Jack had a pair of 41s and for his trouble took home a handsome leather golf bag, an exact replica in construction of the Walker Cup bags of last season.

The Filene's team is at it again. A year ago they came into permanent ownership of the Schaikke Cup, and yesterday they won the first leg of the Fred Cup. The winning Filene's team had an 11-stroke lead over Jordan Marsh and R. H. White. The Shepard Store team was in the running until one of its players folded up his tent on the 11th green.

Bob Mitten of Jordan's and Jack McCarthy of Filene's will play off for the silver cigarette humidor at The Unicorn Country Club on July 4th. This trophy was originally awarded for the Boston Retail Stores match play championship, but lack of interest caused it to be put up for the low gross, for which McCarthy and Mitten tied with 85s.

Many of the caddies at Unicorn score hitherto nells yesterday. One boy attempted to slide down the hill at the 12th in his bare feet but he slipped and cent the length of the decline on the small of his back.

Francis Ouhuel, former United States open and amateur champion, gave an interesting talk to the members after lunch. He commented on the fougher talent for nobody even mentioned calling off their tournament. Despite the rain, the cold and the unfavorable conditions, a field of 85 golfers trudged their way around the Unicorn course.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

"TAKE me out to the ball game," chirped Mr. Boston today.

"Try and get a ticket," piped George Grimm.

"I've got one," laughed the veteran.

"And there are people who say golf is ruining baseball," resumed Mr. Boston. "Baseball is still the national pastime as a winning ball club proves. Boston is still the greatest baseball city in the world. The new interest in the Red Sox proves this. The Carrigans have won their way into the hearts of the fans by displaying some real fighting spirit.

"THE next time I go to a wrestling bout I'm not going to ask Jack Conway to get me a seat in the press row. When Sonnenberg went hurtling through the ropes he missed the top o fmy dome by a foot. I'd be out pushing up daisies if the Dynamiter had come shooting between the first and second rope instead of between the second and third. What a toss!

"THE college spirit has made the wrestling game in Boston. The $32,000 gate at the Lewis-Sonnenberg bout shatters all box office marks here. The previous top was $15,000.

"THE fight promoters looked at the crowd and wept. They were forced to admit that Paul Bowser furnished one of the greatest attractions in the history of sport in the Hub. In addition to his world's championship main bout, Bowser showed about every wrestler of note in his preliminary card.

"THE excitement of the wrestling show was not so great as to keep Eddie Mack from asking the announcer to tip the crowd that Honeyboy Finnegan and Sammy Fuller battle for the New England junior lightweight championship at Braves Field on Monday night.

"I NOTICED Jack Sharkey, heavyweight contender, in a ringside seat. Sharkey is a Sonnenberg booster.

"PAUL BOWSER drifted down back of the press row just before title bout started.

"'I could have sold $20,000 more tickets if I had good seats left on the day of the show,' said Paul. 'As it is, the show is a complete sellout either than a few seats in the rear on the floor.

"'Most of the crowd is made up of Sonnenberg rooters. New England has gone wild over the former Dartmouth star. Like Dempsey, the Dynamiter gives action. If he licks Lewis, he will make a million dollars.'

"Sonny didn't lick the champion, but he came so near doing so that he is still a popular idol. With another year of experience, Sonnenberg won't have to bow to Lewis or anybody else.

"GUESS I'll be rumbling along to the baseball orchard. I'm rooting for the Sox, but I still hope Babe will bust a couple for old time's sake."

CLAN TEAMS IN QUINCY TODAY

By BILL McAULEY

Clan McGregor and Clan Robertson soccer elevens meet today at Merrymount Park, Quincy, in a Scottish Clan league contest that may decide where this year's championship will rest.

The Robertsons will have to defeat the Quincy kilties, to continue in the race, otherwise the Clan Stewart eleven will cop the pennant, as they are two points ahead of the Dorchester bunch.

The McGregors have just annexed the Scottish Clan cup in competition in which the Robertson's were beaten in the semifinals by the Stewarts.

The Robertson and McGregor teams have furnished some thrilling tilts for the fans in past games, and today's battle promises to be another good game.

McGregors, with Stewart, Milne, May, Gunning and Michaelson in the defense, are well fortified, and Miller, McLaren, Rae, Allison and Logan complete a strong attack.

The Robertsons with Findlay, Dundas, Grimason, Logan and the brothers Galt are just as strong in defense, but their front line of Quinn, McIntyre, Murray, Gardner and McAllister falls short of being equal to its opponents.

The game will start at 3:30. A big crowd of both Boston and Quincy fans will be there at the kick-off.

St. Georges Play Mystic Eleven

The St. George's cricket eleven will take on the Mystic eleven of Malden in a Bay State League match at Glendale Park this afternoon.

This is the feature tilt of an interesting program scheduled for today and the Everett crease is sure to hold a bumper crowd when the umpire sets the balls to start the match.

The St. George's are travelling at a fast pace this season and already their supporters are claiming the title for them.

The Mystic Club, with its roster of veterans, will furnish the Sons with real opposition and should give them a race for the points.

Everett will travel to Rockland in the only other Bay State game scheduled, and the elevens should provide the South Shore fans with some fast and keen cricket.

In the Massachusetts State League three games are scheduled for Franklin Field and one for North Brighton.

At the Dorchester crease the Barmudians vs. Windsors, West India vs. University, and Wanderers vs. Yorkshires will furnish the action with the Standards taking on the West India Bees out at North Brighton.

Martin and Morgan Training

Cannonball Martin and Ted Morgan are getting ready for their lift at Ebbets Field July 4.

TEDESCO TENNIS TOURNEY STARTS THIS MORNING

Tedesco's annual tennis tournament will get under way at the Lynn club courts this morning with competition in the various divisions starting at 10 o'clock.

P. E. Hays and R. W. Marks are the seeded players in the men's singles, while those to get that honor in the women's singles are Virginia Price, Eleanor Hollop, Ruth Blodgett and Sally Brooks.

OLYMPIC CLUB ATHLETES ENTERED AT STADIUM

The Olympic Club athletes have been entered in the games at the stadium next week. Bob Kelley in the hop, step and jump; Earl Fuller in the $00-metre, Jack Merchant in the hammer and 56-pound weight throw.

James Corgen in the discus, Russ Sweet in the sprints, and Hugo Leistner in the hurdles, are San Francisco pros on the way east.

HAHN RUNNING AT LAWRENCE

Lloyd Hahn was running his last mile race today at the New England A. A. A. U. track and field championships, conducted by the Lawrence Council, Knights of Columbus.

America's middle-distance running ace is making his farewell appearance as a runner this summer. He has said that the Olympic games will furnish him with a climax and that then he will settle down in business.

In the 1500 metre run, Hahn has one today will be his last, for in the Olympics the distance is 1500 metres, some yards short of a mile.

The mighty Hahn was not the only track and field star of note competing here today. The coming Olympic team tests a week hence have brought all the athletes from prominence, as well as a group of college stars.

Among the topnotchers on hand to compete today were Macaley Smith, Sam Martin, John Collier of Brown, Monty Wells of Dartmouth, Al Miller, ex-Harvard sprinter; Frankie Burns, former Holy Cross flier; the Lermond brothers, Leo and George; Earl McDonald, Holy Cross captain the past season; Tony Plansky, the Jim Thorpe of the all-arounders; Bob Dalrymple, B. A., and Art Sager, the javelin tosser.

McGill Tackles Friberg

Next Tuesday night, at Springfield, Pat McGill will tackle the clever John Friberg at Jack Kasson's show.

FINNEGAN SET FOR BOUT WITH FULLER

Only one detail looms up in the path of Sammy Fuller, North End Italian, to crush his victory hopes, when he clashes with Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan in the Argonne A. A. 10-round feature at Braves Field, next Monday night, according to his closest supporters.

This fight will mark Fuller's first professional engagement against a southpaw and this fact is giving his handlers considerable concern. Left handed fighters always cause trouble for boxers, who have not had experience against them and as Finnegan's style is one of the most perplexing of all southpaws, this fact alone may turn the tide of battle Monday night.

Fuller is not worrying over this detail. In fact, he points out that while he never has met a southpaw during his professional career, he never failed to take the measure of these portside fighters, when he was in the amateur ranks.

Trainer Harry Kelly, who has charge of the activities at Fuller's camp at Sharon Gardens, is grasping every opportunity to work Fuller out against southpaws and thus far the North End thunderbolt has accomplished everything asked of him. Harry Foley, West End light weight and one of the most bewildering southpaws around, is working with Fuller and the North End boy has solved his style at every session.

Fuller will enter the ring stronger than at anytime during his career, according to a statement by Harry Kelly yesterday. Fuller stepped on the scales and tipped the beam at 123½ pounds. This means that his forfeit of $1000, which is posted to make the junior lightweight limit of 130 pounds, will be safe.

The weight stipulation was accepted to give Honeyboy some trouble, but Jerry Gardner, who is supervising the training of the Dorchester boy, expects to have him enter the ring well under the limit. In fact Finnegan now is down to 131½ pounds and will have no trouble in protecting his $1000 forfeit.

In spite of Fuller's knockout record and his claims to fame as a slugger, Dorchester friends of the Honeyboy are of the opinion that the southpaw is the harder hitter of the two and while they are not shouting their hopes to the clouds, they are eagerly looking forward to Finnegan stepping the North End boy.

Joe Minerva, the South End boy who has jumped into prominence by his knockout of Young Al Delmont and his victory over Jerry Parker, is out to pin another knockout on Frankie Moore, North End, whom he meets in the semifinal.

TIME TRIALS AT AUTO TRACK

Holders of tickets for the 200-mile auto classic event at the Rockingham Speedway July 4 may procure added thrills, perhaps equal to those produced by the big race itself by visiting the speedway tomorrow, Monday or Tuesday when their tickets for the holiday classic permit them to witness the speed trials of the pilots who will face Starter Jack Kerrigan's flag in the contest proper.

This provision was announced today by Secretary Daniel Sawyer. Kirby Shellaby, and the box office will be open Sunday for the holiday race ticket purchasers. It is the huge speed trials that many of the thrills are provided and the cars hit over 125 miles per hour.

Two Greater Boston boys are listed with the elite of the speedsters. Jimmy Gleason, one of the veterans heroes of the last 500-mile Indianapolis derby, is a Boston youth. Jimmy hopped into the wheel in the big sweepstakes and stayed there for 55 laps despite the rushes of the rest of the field and would not be shaken from his position.

At length a bridge loss connection drove him into the repair pits, but not until he had collected $3900 in lap money, or an amount greater than the winner of third place in the race got.

Ralph Hepburn, a Somerville youth, who was well known locally as a motorcycle racer, graduated from the two-wheelers and is rated with the best of the performers on the track today.

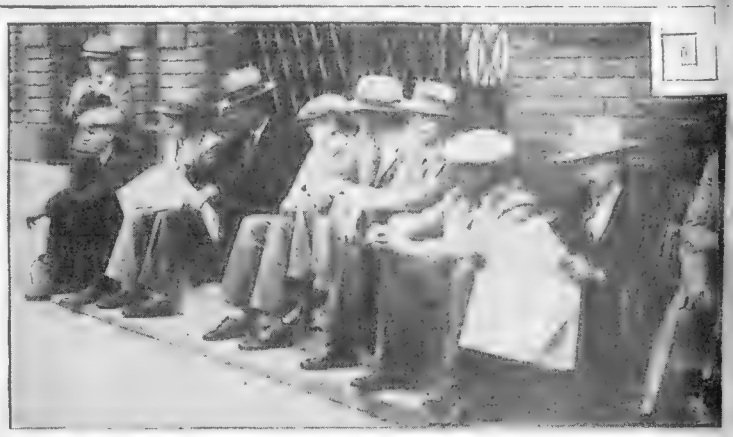
Record Crowd for Great Sox-Yank War at Fenway

ADVANCE GUARD OF HUGE THRONG AT YANKS-SOX TWIN BILL WAITING FOR GATES TO OPEN



REMINISCENT OF HUB WORLD SERIES OF OTHER YEARS

Was the scene in the vicinity of Fenway Park this morning. Hours before the gates were thrown open the crowd started to form in line to get tickets for the Yankee-Red Sox doubleheader this afternoon. The park was filled to overflowing when the first game started, and if the seating capacity were twice as great as it is it would not have been enough to take care of all who wanted to see the games. These two pictures of crowd were taken two hours before gates opened.

Children of City Streets Bless the Churches

Hundreds of Daily Vacation Bible Schools will be opened next week throughout New England. Play, work and study are so mingled as to appeal to children between the ages of 4 and 14, who forget heat, mischief and dirt, while they sing, listen to stories, weave baskets and join in directed play. General director of these schools is Miss Lucie M. Gardner, who has built up the vacation school idea until there are in New England 800 schools with 8000 teachers and 50,000 children attending. More money would mean more schools, and more and better teachers would mean better citizens. The teacher in the picture is Mrs. Anna Giambarresi, who is telling thrilling Bible stories. The little Miss examining the Scriptures in her lap is Lucy Siracusa of Boston's North End, who was photographed with her friends at the Methodist Mission, North Square.

CLERGY OF HUB LEAVE BOSTON FOR VACATION

The Malden Council for Religious Education will conduct a Daily Vacation Bible School at the Centre Methodist Church to begin July 7, Tuesday, and run for one month. The classes will meet from nine to twelve each morning. Children from four to fourteen may attend.

The movies, including all members who are not professed, will assemble at 6:15 p. m. in the School Hall for instruction.

FACT Story of the German Submarines From Secret Records

CHAPTER 5

THE most unconquerable and the deadliest weapon we put into the war against Germany was a tradition of the sea. More than a hundred years before the assassinated Lusitania carried her human freight to the Port of Death, Americans had established this tradition, that the seas were free to our keels for their peaceful journeys.

Yankee merchant skippers of the old days put the protection of their rights in the keeping of "Long Tom," the pike, the cutlass and the cannon ade rather than in nebulous courts of international or Admiralty law. Their broadsides roared in the seven seas and when they found a way closed they opened it themselves; it was not their way to ask for help at the first shot across their bows. The keen windward eye of the sun lover was their reliance rather than the spectacled vision of the lawyer seeking case and precedent in musty law books.

The marching days of 1917 and 1918 showed clearly that the old tradition had not lapsed with the passing of a century. American merchant ships put to sea once more with guns on their decks. The guns were furnished by the Ordnance Department of the navy and the gun crews were naval uniforms. Each little group of fighting men was under the command of a naval petty officer and each was committed to the tradition of the past—that no American ship should surrender while the guns and the men behind them could still blaze defiance.

There had grown up in the German submarine fleet a ritual which they followed closely in their work of sweeping shipping from the seas. If the allied or neutral ships which swam into the eye of the German periscope was of great size and value, a precious torpedo would be sent on the task of sinking her. If she was but one of the smaller carriers of the sea, the submarine would come to the surface and attack with the long-range guns on its deck. Usually a few warning shots sent the crews of the doomed ship tumbling into their boats, whereupon the submarine would close in and put a bombing party on their prize for a few minutes, rifle her quickly of her papers and such part of her cargo or supplies as they might value and then send her to the bottom with a few bombs in her hold or in the water against her hull.

It was not in keeping with the Yankee tradition of the freedom of the seas to accept surrender tamely and so when we broke off diplomatic relations with Germany, President Wilson ordered our merchant ships to arm and defend themselves. The stark, unequal fights between our cargo carriers, built for peaceful traffic, against far more powerful ships of war is one of the epics of history. There were scores of these fights and often the power of the enemy ships prevailed against scantily armed bravery, but as a whole the armed American ship wrote a new chapter in the history of war on the waters

The Navajo Was on Her Way From New York to Havre

To select any one case as more deserving of praise than another would be unfair to scores of gallant ship's crews who fought as hard and as well, but we cannot tell the story of all these battles in this limited space. With heartfelt apologies to the good men we do not mention, let us turn to the story of the Navajo.

A steel-hulled cargo boat, with wooden decks, the Navajo was on her way from New York to Havre in France. The United States had only been in the war a few weeks. Little of the great war machine we were to build on land and sea was even dreamed then. A few hundred men of the Navy manned two little three-inch guns on her forward and after decks, all under the command of Chief Boatswain's Mate Horace L. Ham.

The journey was almost over. The time had passed in eager-eyed watch for the deadly periscope or the wake of a bubbling torpedo, but the way had been clear. Daily thrills had kept the gunners at the height of proficiency and the nerves of all had been tightly strained in constant readiness for the moment of action. Now the coast of England lay to their left. France nearly in view—and still no sumbarine had appeared. It was the morning of the Fourth of July, 1917. Two hundred miles away millions crowds packed the streets of Paris, cheering hysterically as the first of the American fighting's army paraded the Champs Ely-sees. London, so far away on the port quarter, also fired with the Stars and stripes as England joined with America for the first time to celebrate the day that had freed or separated the two peoples a century and a half before.

It was a lame Fourth on the Navajo. The throb of the engines and the slap of Atlantic swells as the blunt bow of the ship plowed through them were all that broke the silence. There was no "Over the top below." Every man not on duty below decks scanned the waters on the misty horizon for the first sight of an enemy. Port was only a few hours away and all seven hoped they feel itched for the feel of the land.

Suddenly shouts of warning rang from a dozen throats and a demand for a lence came roaring down from the bridge. As every man held his breath, one more the heavy thump of big guns came rolling in from the sea. A bank of fog swirled about the Navajo and the horizon closed in, shutting the ship into a tiny world whose limits were only a few hundred yards away.

Boa'n Ham and his men sprang to their guns. Capt. P. J. McDougall, the skipper, signalled the engine room for more speed and then leaped for over the rail, trying to peer through the fog with his binoculars. Still the pounding of the guns rolled in through the mist. Twenty minutes of tense silence followed and then the fog lifted as suddenly as it had come and the ship's chronometer showed on the ship's chronometer

Two Miles Away, Almost Dead Ahead, Was a Sub

Without warning the fog thinned. Two miles away and almost dead ahead lay a German submarine. Her decks awash and her guns flashing at a British topsail schooner close by. The English ship was burning and was down at the head, almost ready for her last plunge.

Capt. McDougall's hand was seized to order the ship to the rescue when he remembered its orders to protect his own safety first. Hesitation he swung his ship in port and fled at top speed for the English coast. Once more the fog closed in and the sound of the guns faded as the Navajo held her own on her new course.

Two hours of steaming brought the ship out of danger from the submarine and once more Capt. McDougall changed his course for Havre. Closed in by the fog the ship felt her way slowly toward France, with every man doubly on the alert. Two hours went by and the mist thinned, the captain once rang for more speed.

Rapidly the fog waned away and the sun brightened. A cheer to greet the clear weather had just started when two guns roared to starboard. A great geyser of water leaped into the air as a German shell plunged through a wave so close that the flying water sprayed on the deck. Another shell steamed over the ship. A German submarine was giving the order to heave to and surrender.

The Navajo was no tame quarry. At Capt. McDougall's order, the helmsman swung the ship away from the enemy and presented only the stern of the ship as a target instead of the long broadside. Boa'n Ham's after three-inch gun spat quick answer to the challenge. The engine roared up to "Full Speed Ahead" and the fight was on.

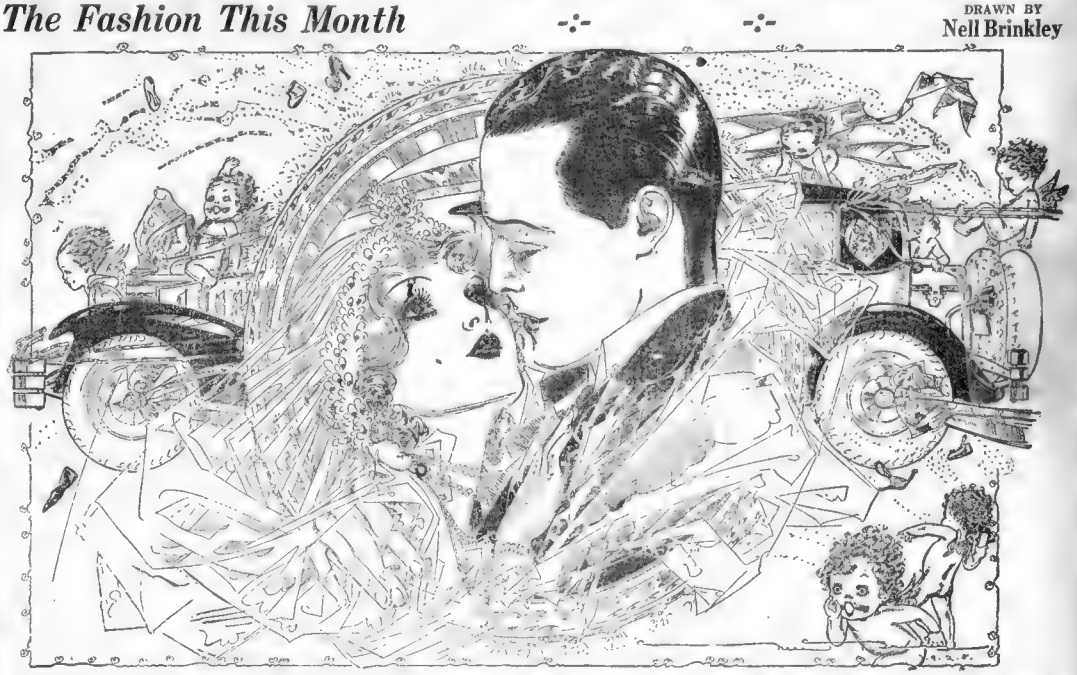
COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Fairhaven, Mass.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life. When I became nervous and run-down my husband gets me a bottle right away. It is a great help to me and I think that if other women would only take it when they feel all run-down and take it as the directions say, they would find it a great benefit. My worst symptoms were nervousness and tired feelings. I could not sleep nights and I was so nervous I would cry if anyone looked at me."—Mrs. Ada Bacon, 196 Washington Street, Fairhaven, Mass.

The Fashion This Month

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley



THIS highly colored, wordy fashion articles may ponder this and that. They may talk shilly to "Mesdames and Demoiselles" about whether to wear lizard skins on a picnic or not again this year. They may tell you positively that if you go one tone off moonshine grey or pigswyg pink you will be CHIC, never to find it again. They may actually wonder about the width of skirts, the return of the 5-minute "manteau," and whether to wear dead stag fur in the A. or encourage a little chignon there. They may solemnly warn you to "keep it short" or gayly advise you that essentially is going to be Garbo, and if you don't fall in line with more than you will be one of those strange old-fashioned creatures left over from other times. CHAPTER 52

Alan shifted in his chair. He folded his arms on the table. He leaned to the ash tray for a burnt match and drew hieroglyphics on the tablecloth. He surveyed the room with insolent gray eyes and said, "What a mob!" He called Dolly's attention to a girl in a black lace dress. He asked if she did not think the girl looked like Ina Stanish. He did in short, all the things a man does when he very much desires the subject changed.

Dolly merely stared at him. She was beginning to see now. Clearly. Dazzlingly.

"Don't you?"

"Don t what?"

"Think she looks like Bee?"

Dolly ignored both the question and the girl in the black lace dress. "Alan," she said, "who bought Jerry's business before he left New York? You did. Didn't you?"

"What in the—"

"It's no use," she cut in. "I know now. I know you did."

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

The telephone girl was on her vacation. One day when she was out fishing someone in another boat called, "Hello!" Just then a bob of the cork told her she had a bite. "Line's busy," she answered, and pulled in her fish.

"Among My Chiffoniers"

The morning started wrong,
There's grief the whole day long,
My collar button's gone
From out my chiffoniers;
I searched the household o'er,
The while I softly swore,
I've emptied every drawer,
Among my chiffoniers;
There's not a corner missed,
Nor cubbyhole left unkissed,
I did the kidney twist,
In my mad ex-plor-a-tion;
Then wifie says, "You squirt,
I hope you don't feel hurt,
It's in your dirty shirt I
And not your chiffoniers."

Embarrassing Moments

Sir:

Broke and unable to pay my bills and no job in sight, I decided to end it all. I carefully sealed up my bedroom and turned on the gas. I laid down to await my passing to the other world. Imagine my annoyance when I awakened the next morning to remember I had gas had been turned off for non-payment of bills.

ON DISCOURAGEMENT

By LUCY LOWELL

I HEARD such a gorgeous fable the other day—one with such a punch of a thought in it—that I am going to pass it along to you, hoping it will make you do some thinking.

It is the story of a man who evidently possessed superhuman powers, for he decided that he should like to visit unearthly places, and accordingly traveled down a very long and very broad way to the infernal regions.

And it was not at all what he had thought it would be; indeed, it looked very much like this earth of ours. And as he was marching along he came to a great country estate, one like those you see pictured in magazines as "gentlemen's farms." And this farm was remarkable for the huge grain storehouses which covered acres and acres of the land.

The man stopped at the first of these granaries and inspected the contents—well-filled sacks, all neatly tied and stored from floor to ceiling, and every one labeled.

He read the labels, being curious as to what sort of seed is considered worth putting by in Hades, and found them marked "Hatred," "Contention," "Lies," and other, more terrible names.

The man pondered and was conscious, suddenly, of one whom he knew to be the proprietor of the place—and king of the region as well—at his elbow.

"And how," inquired this person, "do you like my storehouse?"

The man, not being so brave as he might have wished, shuddered. "Can you plant those anywhere?" he inquired.

"Oh, no," was the reply. "These seeds grow only when the soil of human mind is receptive. A great hindrance to our work here, that is. But come along and see my other storehouses."

His Satanic majesty led the way around the other granaries—hundreds of them there were—and each and every one was filled with great sacks and each and every sack bore the same label, "Discouragement."

"But that isn't so bad," declared the visitor.

"Of course not," said Satan. "Not so bad at all—or so good from our viewpoint, if you'll excuse me. What we do, you see, is sow the seeds of discouragement first. You can make them grow everywhere—well, almost everywhere. And when the human mind is all nicely fertilized with discouragement, then those other seeds," he waved toward the first warehouse, "have no trouble taking root. Clever, don't you think? And so few mortals knew about it that we carry on almost unobstructed."

"And is there no place," inquired the visitor, "where the devil cannot make discouragement grow?"

Satan thought a long time and finally admitted reluctantly that there was just one place. "In a grateful heart," said he, "the seed of discouragement takes no root. And this is a matter of concern with us here in Hades, for where discouragement will not live it is pretty certain those seeds"—with another wave at the first granary, "will not live either.

"The fact of the matter is," he went on rather sardonically, "that where discouragement cannot rest in the devil stays out, though I'm giving away trade secrets when I tell you so."

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THIS is the 'Safety-First Age' - the era of fool-proof traffic lights, kissproof lipsticks, waterproof rouge and fireproof hearts.

* * *

A man never forgets a woman's first kiss—if she is careful to make it the last.

* * *

One of life's baffling mysteries, to a man, is how a woman always knows when another woman is going to be a temptation to him—even before HE does.

* * *

It takes an awfully brave woman to stand up for the charms of old-fashioned monogamy in an ultra-modern country club crowd.

It doesn't seem to matter how much paint, knees or vertebrae a girl shows if she is careful not to shock the men by displaying any few brains she may have under her water-wave.

"The wolf at the door" that bothers most women in the hungry one that appear about 6 p. m. with that "Well-make-it-snap!" look in his eyes.

* * *

There never was a man quite so bad that he didn't admire a woman for declining to let him regard her as "just another telephone number."

* * *

At 17 a girl yearns for a "great lover," at 25 for a great spender, at 30 for a good provider—or "what have you?"

Shipping About to Revive; When to Purchase Stocks

By B. C. FORBES

New York, June 30—You will soon see the American flag back on the ocean in respectable numbers. My shipping friends tell me that the United States Shipping Board is cooperating heartily with them to give the nation the advantages authorized by Congress before it adjourned.

B. C. Forbes.

Shipowning is to be encouraged by the payment of attractive rates for carrying American mails, by the lending of government funds at low rates to stimulate the building of new ships and by other helpful, sympathetic measures. I am told that the response by American shipowners has gratified the Washington shipping authorities and that really important expansion of American shipping and shipbuilding has been definitely guaranteed.

This news should interest and cheer everyone—except foreign competitors.

Prosperous stock prices fall, the more attractive the stocks become in the eyes of those who understand values. Bargains are harvested by intelligent investors when the bargains are offered.

Dallas has been built into a great metropolis with the help of "its territory," declared L. Thornton, president of Industrial Dallas, Inc., "and Dallas sees in the cancellation an opportunity to repay in part the debt. The destiny of Dallas is inseparably linked with the destiny of her territory, with its six billions of purchasing power and its twelve millions of people."

This breadth of view is commended to other progressive cities.

* * *

A New York business man who has returned from a trip over the continent remarked: "I was amazed to find more people talking about Hoover than about Smith. I had foolishly imagined that Gov. Smith was as much of a figure everywhere else as he is in New York. Before I left I had assumed that Al would win rather easily. I have changed that opinion."

Wall Street likes Gov. Smith and is lukewarm toward Hoover, but at that it lays odds that Hoover will win. However, Wall Street can, and often does, change its mind very quickly.

BROKERS ARE MOSTLY FOR WAITING

Boston brokers' views of the stock market, just issued, follow:

Purchase Anthony & Co. say: "Now what later on we anticipate rather a broad uptrend, featuring steels, coppers, rails and utilities. At present we believe the credit situation will bear watching. Presumably money will be plentiful and prosperity after July 1, but it will be just as well to await the event.

Hornblower & Weeks—We would take profits quite generally in the stocks which have had substantial advances in the past three days. To our way of thinking the pace of recovery is being undertaken at too rapid a rate, and while we maintain that the subsequent reactions in the market during July will not bring the averages to the lows made this month, nevertheless a sagging market could readily take the place of the present rapid advance and its duration could be prolonged for a sufficient length of time to return sentiment to the pessimistic viewpoint of 10 days ago. Such a development would be in keeping with the sequence of speculative movements, following the rise of the May, June reaction.

Clark, Childs & Co.—It is by no means certain that there will not be further liquidation before the market is in a position to have a sustained upward movement. But from now on price movements should be more selective and discriminatory purchases would seem in order. While we maintain a reserve buying power for such buying opportunities as may be presented during the next few weeks.

H. Hentz & Co.—While 8 per cent money failed to dislodge any appreciable volume of stocks from current recovery, there was considerable profit-taking at the close which appeared to be professional. The rapid pace in some stocks, such as General Motors, Radio, General Electric, American International, etc., is likely to result in another normal reaction.

Initial Dividend

Federated Business Publications Inc., declared initial dividend of 25 cents on common, payable Aug. 1.

BOSTON BANK DEPOSITARY OF INT. PAPER

By FRANK H. MELDON,
Financial Editor.

First National Bank of Boston has been appointed Boston depositary for all classes of International Paper Company under terms of plan and agreement dated June 25, 1928, for exchange for shares of International

ARCHIBALD R. GRAUSTEIN

Paper & Power Company. The plan as outlined by President Archibald R. Graustein, former Boston lawyer, has already been given in detail in this column.

Current advance in the stock market has been so rapid as to create suspicion that an extensive short interest has been trapped. Some shrewd knew money could be right over the month-end, but are finding that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." A Wall Street writer says: "Some very talented operators are more of less ignoring the present market and are awaiting more definite signs that the advance is more legitimate. A driven-in of shorts does not always create a rally and does have the effect of lessening the supporting structures of the market. Big people in the main are still waiting to see if money actually does ease materially."

* * *

Successful consummation of the plan and acquisition of the New England Power Association would result in organization with total capital and funded liabilities of $350,000,000, of which about 85 per cent. would represent segregated power and utility corporations, the balance representing pulp, paper, timber and miscellaneous properties.

* * *

Views of the big business leaders are always interesting. We find Charles M. Schwab thinks politics is not going to hurt business. Mr. Schwab believes modification of maximum Anti-Trust law so manufacturers can legally supervise distribution of their own products is important cure of Federal interference. President Samuel M. Vauclain, of Baldwin Locomotive declares American industries are headed out of a temporary depression into a new and healthier era than ever before existed.

Both the Gov. Fuller regime and ex-Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin are handling the "501" car problem. The report that Goodwin's gubernatorial announcement came as a general surprise in State Street was true only as regards the element of time. Of more than a score of brokers questioned not one had heard Mr. Goodwin's name used in connection with any office under that of Governor.

Mr. friend President Wellington Wells of the Massachusetts State Senate, frequently referred to in this column as an outstanding financial genius on Beacon Hill, seeks nomination as lieutenant governor. It looks as if the campaign were bringing out plenty of the sort of talent that appeals to those who want the plan of business, the biggest business of all, run right.

* * *

Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corp. provides the automotive world with its largest surprise. This is a new device which eliminates the carburetor. The explanation is highly technical.

* * *

Bank clearings, one of the most watched indices of general business, again display gains for the last reported week.

OBEDIENCE IS KEYNOTE FOR SAFETY

By FRANK A. GOODWIN,
Highway Safety Director Receiving American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts

"Good old fashioned obedience."

An excellent and very necessary ingredient for child safety, according to Mrs. E. H. Bullard of 20 Bay State rd., whose Don'ts won honorable mention.

Mrs. Bullard undoubtedly would have got higher honors but for the fact that her code was directed to mothers rather than to children. She submitted one of the finest letters in the contest.

"I am a driver of a car as well as being a mother and a grandmother," wrote Mrs. Bullard, "and doubly realize the necessity for training mothers to the great responsibility of safe guarding their children in traffic.

"If your discipline is not popular with the present generation of mothers, you feel that insistence on obedience, individuality, yet if one is to cope successfully with this traffic problem obedience always must be first at home. Obedience to a command insures safety in traffic and children who have been taught to heed a reproving command seldom have difficulty in avoiding accidents.

"Instruction, as mothers, can best co-operate with the interests of those in charge of this commission in teaching safety through the law of good old-fashioned obedience."

And now the Bullard's Safety Don'ts:

Don't allow a child under seven to cross a street in traffic unless attended by some responsible person.

Don't forget to caution your child to look BOTH WAYS before attempting to cross a street.

Don't forget to stress the importance of waiting for a lull in traffic before attempting to cross.

Don't forget to impress upon your child the necessity of keeping between parked cars; neither child n

WOULD MAKE LEAGUE PAY DEFENSIVE WAR VICTIM

Geneva, June 30 (AP)—Financial help for the non-aggressive nation in event of war or threat of war is provided for in a project before the League of Nations committee on security, it was disclosed today. It provides that a country threatening to start an aggressive war shall be warned that the world will be financially financial means for defense.

If the plan should become operative, it would affect signatories of the proposed Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, because violations of that pact would fall under the ban of the league. A special convention open to nonmembers like the United States, is provided for.

TWO LYNCHED AFTER FIGHT

Brookhaven, Miss., June 30 (AP)—Quiet and a little bit apprehensive, Brookhaven carried on as usual today with no traces of the violent excitement that rocked the town last night when two negroes were lynched by a mob.

The lynching resulted from a fight between the two negroes, brothers, and two white men, Claude and Culley Byrne, automobile service station proprietors. Claude suffered a broken hip, his brother, Culley, received a scalp wound from a pistol shot while the chief of police, Walter Smith, was slightly hurt. The negroes fled, but were captured. One was shot down in cold blood.

A mob moved on the jail. Heavy timbers were used to batter down the steel doors but efficient... torch cut through the cell bars.

The negroes, James and Stanley Bearden, were carried to the street, where one was placed in an automobile and the other dragged through the town by a rope around his neck.

Pluribus Unum

Those Who Heard Convention Proceedings on Radio Have Gained New Conception of the Immensity of Our Country

Forty million Americans who heard the proceedings of the two national conventions this year have gained a new conception of the immensity of our country.

Nobody who has not toured it by train, automobile or plane has ever realize fully how diversified it is. But the radio broadcast brings some idea.

Each locality stamps upon its inhabitants a special impress which is revealed in habits of living, outlook of mind and inflections of speech.

It will take the perfection of television to spread knowledge of the first, but the radio makes the others plainer than before.

Yet despite this new glimpsing of diversities, these two conventions have also given us a happy sense of America's essential unity.

At Kansas City and then at Houston picked men and women representative of every locality, every phase of sentiment and opinion, have managed somehow to iron out their differences into a common denominator upon which all are fairly willing to stand.

It is this capacity for adaptiveness which makes our form of government workable.

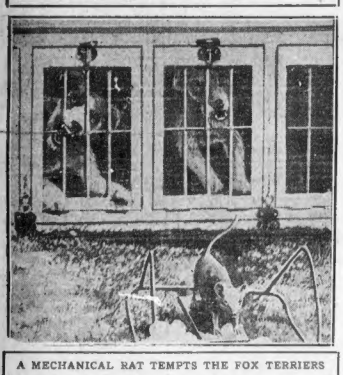
The cable tells us that European onlookers are puzzled. They think we do not take our political problems seriously because we manage to muddle through them with a minimum of bitterness.

That is the saving grace of the democratic system. A people who have it in their power to govern themselves can afford to proceed rather good naturedly upon the whole.

It is only when popular desire is betrayed or thwarted that passions heat up to the explosive point.

All Life Is a CHASE

Everything Chases Something Else



A MECHANICAL RAT TEMPTS THE FOX TERRIERS

Men will bet on everything that MOVES, everything that HAPPENS. The Chinese bet large sums on cricket fights, raising the crickets to fight. Not far from them, the Filipinos will bet the clothing on their backs on chicken fights, raising the chickens to fight.

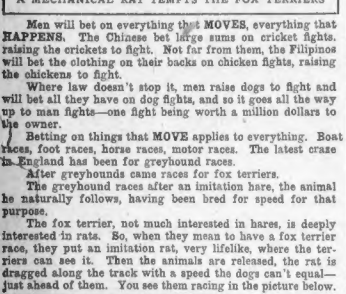
Where law doesn't stop it, men raise dogs to fight and will bet all they have on dog fights, and so it goes all the way up to man fights—one fight being worth a million dollars to the owner.

Betting on things that MOVE applies to everything. Boat races, foot races, horse races, motor races. The latest craze in England has been for greyhound races.

After greyhounds came races for fox terriers.

The greyhound races after an imitation hare, the animal he naturally follows, having been bred for speed for that purpose.

The fox terrier, not much interested in hares, is deeply interested in rats. So, when they mean to have a fox terrier race, they put an imitation rat, very lifelike, where the terriers can see it. Then the animals are released, the rat is dragged along the track with a speed the dogs can't equal—just ahead of them. You see them racing in the picture below.



CHASING THE RAT

They don't catch the rat but they enjoy chasing it; the dog ahead at the end is supposed to win and those who bet

WOMEN ARE LED TO CRIME BY IMPULSE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MISS JACKSON, after 11 years' experience at San Quentin State Prison, declares that women criminals are the victims of uncontrolled impulse rather than of a physiological leaning toward crime.

"There is no criminal type among women prisoners," she says. "Crime among women generally follows an uncontrolled impulse in which women leave the usual path of life and make a detour into crime without thought of the results that follow."

It appears from this that self-control in all emergencies is the virtue most needed.

The writer was once a prison official and frequently visited the State Prisons of Illinois. He was surprised to find that the class of convicts that gave the least trouble was the murderers. The reason is that murders are usually committed on a sudden impulse and a man need not be a hardened criminal to be guilty of this crime.

Of course there are some people who are simply lacking in moral sense. Their whole tone of morals is low and all they need to commit a crime is the opportunity.

But all of us are potential criminals when it comes to impulse, a sudden surging of passion or some overwhelming desire.

Parents should learn from this that the most necessary lesson to teach children is self-control. Children do not need so much to be taught obedience as to be taught how to obey their own better selves.

Anyone who finds his passions too strong for him and who loses his sense of restrain when under the influence of them is in danger of committing any crime.

Self-discipline may be very hard; to people of strong emotions it is sure to be hard.

But it is none the less essential.

Most lawsuits would be avoided if people would control themselves and could learn to be good sports and take their losses without yielding to a desire for vengeance.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MOTHERS go big in America. Fathers aren't such heavy favorites. Thereby hangs a tragedy.

Daily warring young couples crash through this office, enroute to the divorce court. If there is a baby in the mother's arms—and there usually is—there is also a triumphant gleam in her eye.

"Ah-ha, I've got my husband over a barrel," says the gleam. "I'll pay him back plenty for all he's done to me. See this baby? He's crazy about it, but he might as well say goodby to it right now. For from the day I get that divorce it will be MY baby. Babies belong to mothers. Everyone knows that. No judge would dream of taking a baby away from its mother. Watch that man yell when he finds that out."

This venomous soliloquy is not exaggerated. Such are the actual meditations of nine out of ten Mad Mammas. The vast majority of mothers believe that babies are exclusive maternal property—that mothers love their children more than fathers and do more for them, and that there can be no higher crime than to rob a mother—any mother—of her child. Moreover, public opinion backs them in this belief. What can a judge do in the face of such sentiment, even if he wants to? Exactly nothing.

Now I am a woman and a mother, with all a mother's natural cussedness and conceit. But it has also been my fortune to act as father to my child. Moreover, in the course of my work I deal with thousands of fathers. And I protest that our present treatment of fathers in the majority of divorce cases is outrageous.

The average father loves his child as deeply and loyally as the average mother.

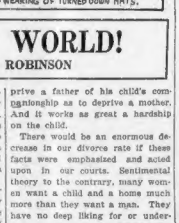
His rights in the child are as sacred.

The service he renders that child, by supporting it, is exactly as valuable as the service rendered by the mother.

His influence in the child's life is as necessary as the mother's.

It is as cruel and unfair to deprive a father of his child's companionship as to deprive a mother. And it works as great a hardship on the child.

There would be an enormous decrease in our divorce rate if these facts were emphasized and acted upon in our courts. Sentimental theory to the contrary, many women want a child and a home much more than they want a man. They have no deep liking for or understanding of men. They resent the demands which a husband may make upon them and the work caused by his presence in the house. When he has provided the child and the home their use for him has passed, and they can easily find sufficient grounds to rid themselves of him.



No woman should be forced to live with a man who is really cruel to her or her child. But no woman should be allowed to rob a man of his child merely because she is tired of him. And they would think long and hard before trying to do so if they knew that their possession of their children was endangered.

If the father's love were recognized, if the courts would uphold him in taking his child for half the year and placing it in an adequate foster home, there would be a speedy dwindling in divorce complaints.

New York Day by Day

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 29—Several sight-seeing buses are shortly to invade the Black Belt of Harlem and megaphone its wonders to wide-eyed tourists. The smoky section north of 125th st. has been so richly exploited recently that it ranks with the Bowery and Chinatown as an attraction.

Out-of-towners inquire about it more and more and several for-hire hotel guides include it in their itinerary. More than half a dozen novels and plays in the past year had their locale in the Lenox ave. environs.

It has become the most talked-about negro section in the world. A crop of colored writers, song makers and playwrights have added largely to its opulence. Paul Robinson is featured in a London play. Claud McKay is writing another novel in Bolougne. Harlem's envoys are in many distant lands.

The recent passing of Florence Mills, the wistful bright-eyed little mulatto who always winged her way back to Harlem from foreign triumphs, received as much newspaper space as any demise during that year. Writers infused a new and romantic glamour to the Black Belt. It was reported "hot."

Josephine Baker's Parisian popularity was something else to wag tongues about the district, for she was a product of the black and tan cafes. The play "Porgy," with an all negro cast, lifted a tragic dripple of 125th st. to stardom.

The Harlem negro business and residential district has been making strides for years, but its discovery was sudden. George Jean Nathan was first to make excursions there and write his impressions, and then Carl Van Vechten immortalized it in "Nigger Heaven."

The small sprinkling of slummers from down town became a nightly horde of whites in evening dress swarming the cafes and dance halls. Song spirituals were featured at stately Carnegie Hall. Curious Black Belt slang became a part of the language.

IN a night club a white-faced girl informed the head waiter a diamond bracelet of enormous value had become unclasped and lost. It was announced from the floor and a careful search of the room was made. Two hours later a cloakroom attendant picked the bracelet from the chiffon flounces of another lady's dress. It had dropped and become entangled there. And the lady in whose dress it dropped was the divorced wife of the husband of the owner.

IN another club a tall imperious creature, swathed in chinchilla—or maybe it was nutria, I'm not up in furs—and mounted on jeweled heels, came in with a crisp-looking gentleman who seemed to be there by sufferance. In fact he was, being one of those moneybags who married hastily out of the chorus. The trap drummer considerately looked the other way as they spun about on the dance floor. A few years ago he was the lady's husband.

THE appeal of the night club time is solely in the taut an electrical tension of the atmosphere. There is a feeling any sort of human drama may explode just around the corner and usually that is so. As a contrast the bored attendants are generally in some dark corner whipping off smut by reading the true confession type of magazines dealing with "actual stories from actual life."

THE small shop idea has been a boon to many merchants whose large stores were not so prosperous. Now their display windows have been converted into small specialty shops and the added revenue not only pays their own rent but brings in many customers they never had before.

Dangerous Truth

The Statement of the National Prohibition Commissioner

Dr. J. M. Doran, national prohibition commissioner, in Seattle, declared prohibition is, in practice, meant solely for the workingman. He said:

"Who cares whether you and I take a drink? We're white-collar men, we don't produce anything, and our habits have no effect on the prosperity of the country."

Probably the truth, but a dangerous admission. Louis XVI thought the habits of the Bourbons made no difference. He lost his head.

Is it the purpose of the prohibition bureau to make liquor scarce merely to make it too expensive for the worker, or to fight it as an evil? The manner in which they answer this will determine the fate of prohibition.

If the sweat of toil is to be turned into booze for the rich and idleness in which to drink it, then is the experiment doomed certainly to failure.

All Life Is a CHASE

their money on him win from the others.

Everything in life is a pursuit of one kind or another. The fox goes out in the morning to hunt field mice under the dry leaves. The hounds go out to hunt the fox, men on horseback pursue the hounds. And DESTINY PURSUES THEM.

Don't ask, "WHY should FOX TERRIERS, well fed, use all their energy chasing an artificial rat that wouldn't do them any good if they got it." Rather ask, why do MEN, that have more money than they need, dash out early in the morning and spend the whole day chasing after more money that they don't need and that does them no good when they get it.
